GENEVA CONDEMNS GERMAN PRECIPITANCY

Withdrawal Reasons Not Accepted As Valid

AN ADJOURNMENT FOR TEN DAYS

FURTHER DETAILS OF POWERS' OFFER

GENEVA, OCT. 17.

THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE HAS ADJOURNED FOR TEN DAYS, FOLLOWING APPROVAL OF MR. HENDERSON'S REPLY TO GERMANY'S MESSAGE OF WITHDRAWAL, DECLARING INABILITY TO ACCEPT THE REASONS GIVEN AS VALID.

Dr. Benes, Czecho-Slovakia, the rapporteur of the Disarmament Conference, expresses the opinion that a Disarmament Convention through negotiations by the Great Powers is impossible. It must come through Geneva.

The best course to follow at the present time, he said, was to give Germany time to appreciate the real facts of the situation, and let a sense of complete isolation thoroughly sink in.—Reuter.

DEFINITE PROGRAMME DRAWN UP

London, Oct. 16, The Disarmament Conference today decided on a ten days' adjournment to enable the delegates to consult their respective Governments in regard to the situation created by Germany's withdrawal.

The Bureau of the Conference will meet again on October 25 and the General Commission on the day following.

Before adjourning, the delegates adopted the text of the reply to Germany's notification of withdrawal from the Conference.

This reply, which has been despatched by the President of Conference, Mr. Arthur Henderson, to Baron von Neurath, the German Foreign Minister read as follows:

INOPPORTUNE MOMENT.

"I have now communicated to the General Commission your Excellency's telegram of October 14th announcing the decision of the German Government to discontinue participating in the work of the Conference for the reduction and limitation of armaments and indicating the reasons for that decision.

"The German Government took this step at a moment when the Bureau had just decided to submit to the General Commission a definite programme.

"This programme was to be completed within a limited period and provided for the realisation progressively, in accordance with the resolution of the Conference in which Germany herself had concurred, of a reduction of armaments comparable with those contemplated in the convention submitted to the General Commission.

"This programme provided also security and of the realisation of that equality of right which the German Government had always placed in the forefront of its demands.

"I regret the grave decision which has been taken by your Government for reasons which I am unable to accept as valid." (Continued on Page 7.)

PEACE OR COLLAPSE

MR. HENDERSON'S WARNING

INTERNATIONAL ANARCHISTS

Geneva, Oct. 16. "The choice before us is peace or war, progressive disarmament by world action or a mad race to increase both defensive and offensive weapons of war, peaceful development of the world or a collapse into barbarism," declared Mr. Arthur Henderson, President of the Disarmament Conference in a broadcast speech to-night.

With our experience of the horrors and savagery of modern war, no effort should be spared to avert calamity.

It is vital, he said, that the Disarmament Conference should produce a genuine convention despite Germany's withdrawal. "We cannot let world law and order be undermined by international anarchists, no matter on what pretext they propose to flout the law."

SCRAPS OF PAPER?

Mr. Henderson continued: "Through world co-operation based upon the upholding of the Covenant of the League and the Paris Peace Pact, we can finally get disarmament and make peace secure, but if we suffer treaties to become scraps of paper, we shall not get disarmament but another war."

"A grave and terrible responsibility, therefore, rests upon us all to see that the collective peace system based upon the League is not destroyed."—Reuter.

BRITAIN'S STAND

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S ATTITUDE

PRECIPITATE & ILL-JUDGED

London, Oct. 16. The first member of the British Cabinet to make any public comment upon Germany's withdrawal from the Disarmament Conference was Mr. Neville Chamberlain.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the course of a speech at Nottingham, described Germany's action as "precipitate and ill-judged."

He thought that the decision was exceedingly regrettable.

Mr. Chamberlain emphasised that Sir John Simon's proposals, seeking to reduce Franco-German differences to a minimum, were supported by France, the United States and Italy.

They were, he added, designed to give Germany complete equality of treatment within a reasonable period.

FUTURE COURSE.

The situation demanded very calm and very deliberate consideration. He deprecated any hasty comment, any alarmist speculation, and urged that judgment should be reserved until the representatives of Great Britain and other countries have consulted regarding the implications of "this unfortunate incident," and on the course which ought now to be pursued.—Reuter.

EX-KAISER HAILS HITLER

APPLAUDS LEAGUE RECESSION

MONARCHICAL ISSUE

Amsterdam, Oct. 16. The ex-Kaiser gave an interview to-day on the latest developments in the disarmament situation.

He applauded Herr Hitler's action warmly and said that the only surprising thing was that Germany had remained a member of the League of Nations for so long.

Germany, he declared, entered the League with honest intentions, but had always been treated upon an unequal footing.

The former Kaiser added, when questioned, that there was no likelihood of his immediate return to Germany. The question had not been raised.

He fully realised that Herr Hitler at the present time had other things to think of than the restoration of the Monarchy, which, in any case, was not a part of the Nazi programme.—Reuter.

CHINESE HEALTH CENTRE

TUNG WAH SCHEME

BIG THREE-YEAR PROGRAMME

MODERNISATION

(Special to "Telegraph")

A large-scale scheme is now well under way for the complete reconstruction of the Tung Wah Hospital at Po Yan Street, comprising the building of a six-storey modern concrete structure and other appendages.

With this is involved a drastic alteration in the layout of the road approaches to the locality, promising to convert the oldest of local Chinese medical institutions into a modern medical centre where the best and most up-to-date equipment will be made available for a pressing need.

In its broad features, the scheme provides for the erection of a main block of six storeys flanked by two smaller structures rising to the same height and separated from the main portion by gardens.

STREET WIDENING.

At the same time Po Yan Street, on which this new building fronts, will be considerably widened, and on the other side of it, included in the hospital property, another building will be constructed to form with the others a comprehensive hospital area meeting the fullest requirements for many years to come.

The work will be carried out in three stages extending over three years.

The first stage has been put in hand in the construction, which is now well under way, of the main hospital block, with its completion at about the period of the Chinese New Year being carried on in the old hospital property will be transferred to it.

SPACIOUS HALL.

The distinctive features of this massive building will then be seen in the spacious hall measuring more than fifty feet square, sufficiently large to serve as an imposing setting for the meetings of the Hospital board, and, at other times, of the Kai fong organisations. This imposing hall occupies almost the entire space of the ground floor with a portico over the main entrance into the building in front and a small garden in the rear.

On the right hand side of the hall are situated the secretaries' room and a strong room, while on the left hand side, the layout provides for a male and female admission ward, a staircase hall and other minor offices. There will also be a mezzanine floor to be used as living quarters for the medical and secretarial staffs.

SURGICAL DEPARTMENT.

The first floor will be entirely given over to the general accommodation of patients. On the second floor will be located a surgical department with a large operating theatre in the centre and a smaller one at the right end. Attached to these are sterilizing rooms, an anaesthetic room, an X-ray room, which are all for surgical purposes; and also the superintendent's office, lecture rooms for nursing staff, waiting rooms for visitors and an office for lady doctors.

The third floor will be given over to the use of Chinese female patients with a large number of wards, each containing 25 beds.

The fourth floor, like the first, will contain wards for male patients while the top floor will be reserved for private patients.

Later on, when funds permit, a sun roof will be set out for the (Continued on Page 7.)

WHEAT EMBARGO

DAKOTA PROTEST ACTION

U.S. MONETARY OUTLOOK

New York, Oct. 16.

It is learned from Blomberg, North Dakota, that the Governor has proclaimed an embargo upon the export of wheat from the State as from midnight on October 10.

The embargo will be continued indefinitely. Its object is to raise prices and to draw the attention of the nation to the plight of the farmers.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation to-day announced that it had allocated $250,000,000 to the Commodity Credit Corporation for cotton loans.—Reuter.

The possibility of an early stabilisation of the dollar to the pound sterling under a plan that would give silver an improved monetary standing is, however, still regarded as the most important factor in the present situation.

While officials say they have no announcement to make regarding actual monetary affairs, several important financial statements have been issued and New York reports that the governors of the Federal Reserve Banks are already working out the basis for stabilisation have not been denied.

There is also a general feeling that the British-American war debt negotiations will mark time until, at least, a tentative plan has been drawn up.

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross and the Under-Secretary of Treasury, Mr. Dean Acheson, alike decline to comment on the progress of the debt conversations.

Financial and monetary experts agree that stabilisation should precede any debt agreement. The sudden slump in gold values in London may not be entirely disconnected.

"NOT FAR OFF"

Wall Street attributed the improvement in the dollar quotation to reports which, certain bankers declare were reliable, that "stabilisation is not far off."

While the Government is apparently awaiting the completion of its present financing programme and certain other matters before issuing any statement regarding the monetary situation, bankers everywhere interpret the Administration's moves as indicating a sound money policy.

Constant Powdering Bad For Skin

Says Specialist

Many women feel that they must be constantly dabbling on powder in order to prevent shine upon or glimmering faces. They never stop to realize what effect this may have upon their skin.

A new and clever idea now enables any woman to powder once in the morning and have it last all day. A teaspoonful of mouse of cream added to a favourite face powder makes it wondrous and adherent that it stays on in spite of sun, wind or rain and even in the hottest bathroom.

In Pondie Tokalon, the mouse of cream is scientifically blended with the finest attar of roses and the finest attar of sandalwood. Thus, Pondie Tokalon is the only genuine mouse of cream face powder. It acts as a splendid skin tonic, stimulating the tissues and never clogging the pores—such as constant powdering may do. Apply Pondie Tokalon to-morrow morning to your own face and watch results. 986A.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Winter Gowns With a Sense of Humour

"FLAPPER FANNY" ARTIST INTRODUCES SOME ORIGINAL DESIGNS FOR LITTLE WOMEN

By Joan Savoy

New York.—A now young American designer appears in the Fashion constellation—Gladys Parker.

Already widely famed for her "Flapper Fanny" drawings and her fashion sketches, "Femininities"—both of which are regular features of (YOUR PAPER)—Gladys Parker now launches an entire line of winter clothes which she has designed and made for little women.

Staging a one-girl fashion show, to soft music and against a background of flowers, Miss Parker presented her 18 new costumes to an enthusiastic audience in New York. Miss Parker modelled at least half of the costumes herself!

"Everybody can't be beautiful. But you can at least be amusing," is her underlying philosophy. And so she sub-titles her new designs "clothes with a sense of humour."

"All women want to look tall and slender," Miss Parker states. "So I have eliminated belts, put all skirt fullness and decoration low, between the knee and ankle, designed collars that are high in front and in several dresses have entirely done away with hip seams. And I have used long, straight silhouettes, plain colours or stripes."

Smart, original, attractive wearable clothes this young woman has made. Take "White Collar Job," for instance, a sleek black wool office dress that any smart woman would crave the minute she saw it, for its individuality and utter charm. The vestee is striped white velvet, made in Miss Parker's "barber shop collar" design, a high, crushed front, but toned-in-the-back collar that resemble, not a little, the "barber's apron" you wear when you get a hair-cut.

"Bib and Tucker" is the kind of slinky, romantic dress that a college miss would adore. Made of white peau d'ango velvet, it fits the figure sleekly, with no belt, leaving a heightening of white from the tiny double ruffled hem to the collar. An arresting, and very pleasing contrast comes via the bib, a plastron of brown lace which ties in a little bow at the back of the neck. Then, in siren fashion, with just enough of a "Lady Lou" suggestion, there is a godet right smack in the front of the skirt of the same brown lace, through which you glimpse a pair of neat ankles, as the wearers dances about.

There's a practical turn of mind to little Miss Parker's clothes, too.

"I think women want clothes that won't wrinkle and muss. Fuss and feathers on clothes make them so very hard to keep right. So I have used worsteds and ribbed failles that stand up under wear; fine, sheer worsteds for evening that won't have to be pressed every time you pack them for a week-end house party, and have eliminated extra decorations of all kinds."

Double-pannelled backs are an innovation in this collection. With them you can sit in peace, knowing the back of your skirt won't be all wrinkled when you stand up! Colours are all gorgeous rich tones, a heavenly pansy shade, used with cerise; plum, rust coloured twill, wine faille and eel gray.

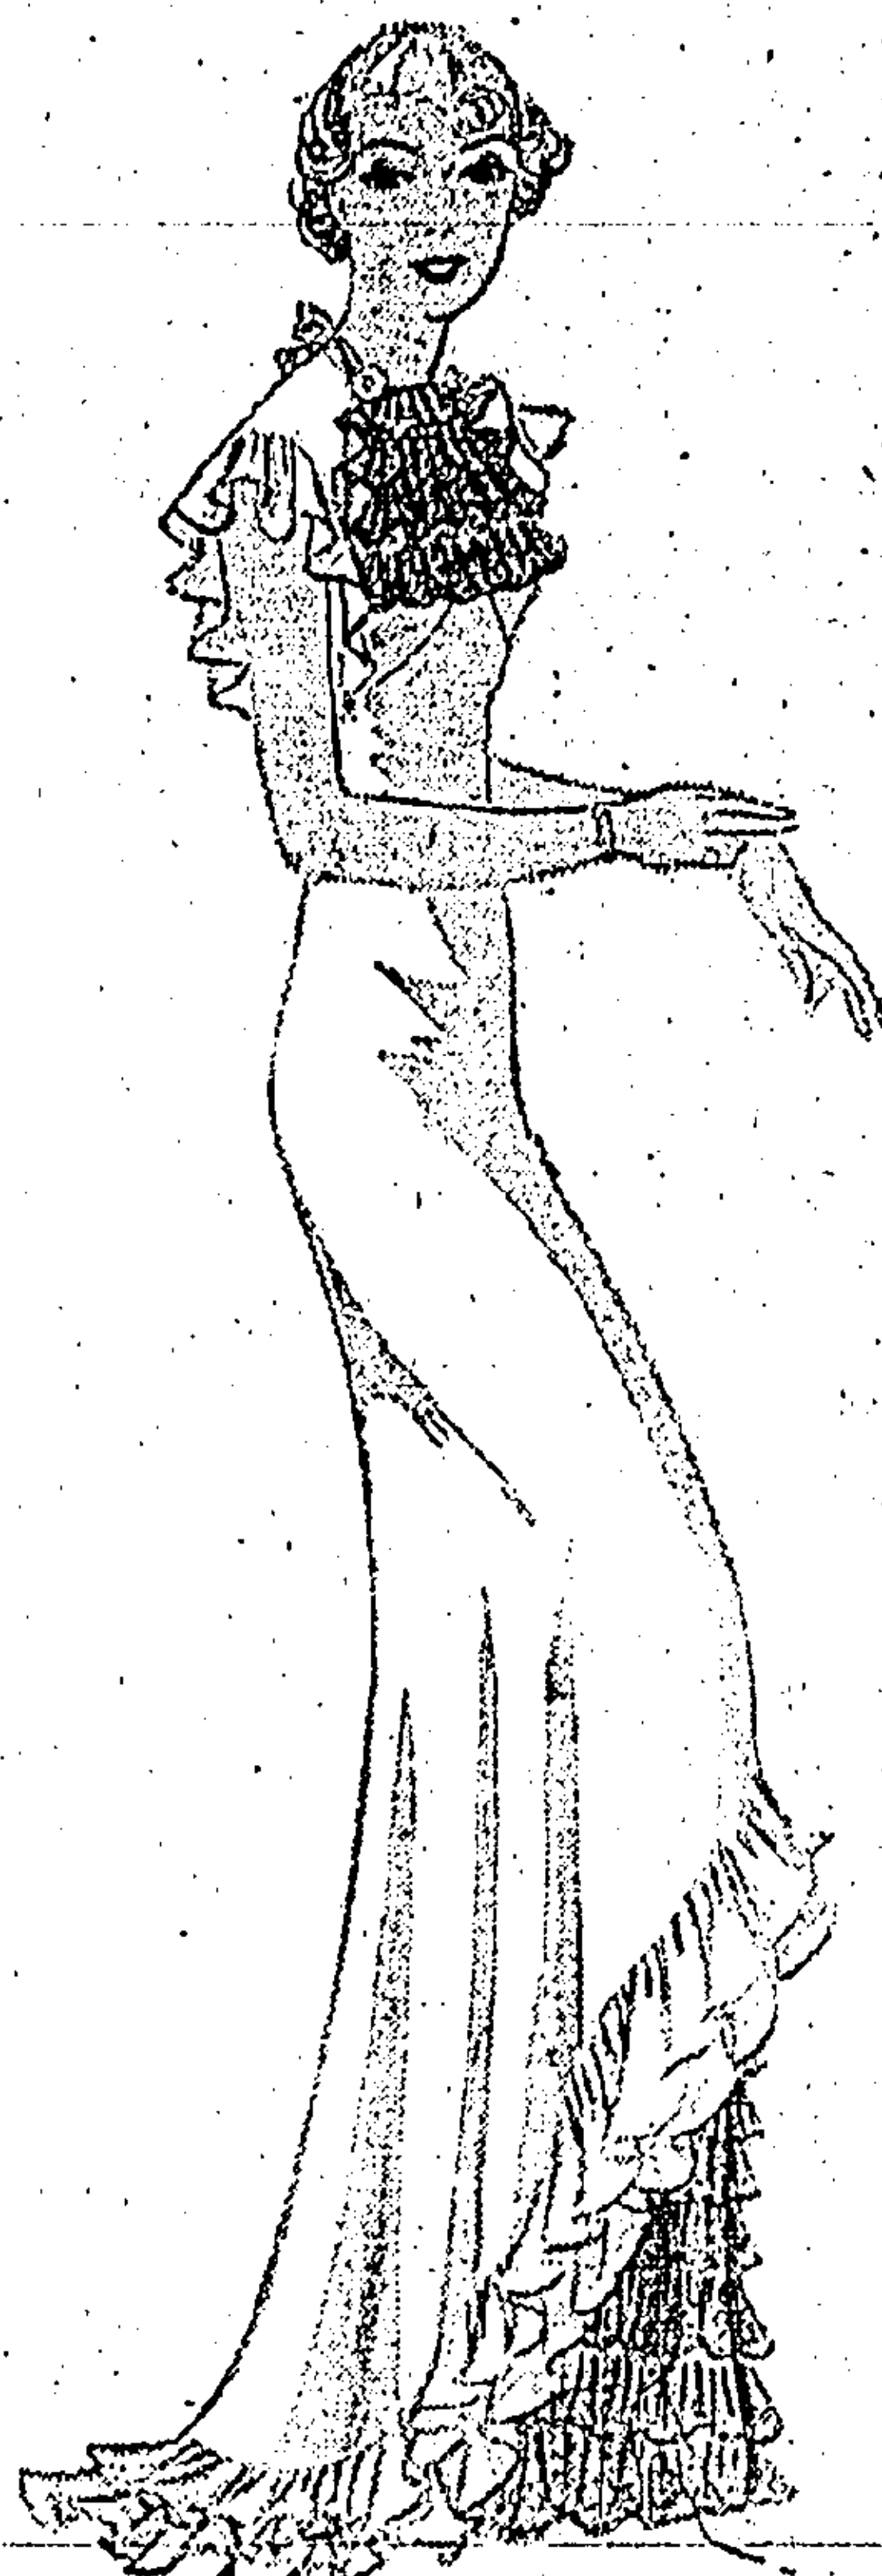

Her names for her new clothes are every bit as original as the costumes themselves. "Business Before Pleasure" is a gray striped touch—a little drapery on the left woollen street dress with large side, low, in-the-skirt, which black buttons. "Little Colonel" is swishes just the right bit.

an eel gray broadcloth suit with the cutest tucked, front and back, ribbed silk shirt. "Anytime Annie" is a soft green wool crepe. "Dama Yankee" is the kind of a smart little military blue wool suit that every youngster would adore. It has a red flannel shirt, neatly tailored with turn-down collar, and red loops for its big buttons.

The fireman's hat that goes with her takes her place along with follow. "Salome" is a young charmer's ideal, a sleek dinner gown of black faille with a white satin should wear and undoubtedly will collar. "Hussy" is an enchanting want. There's a fine realism princess cut gown of black panne velvet, designed to make any girl look unbelievably tall, slender and tering here in America; a light ravishing. It has a winter-1934 touch—a little drapery on the left you will. They are 100 per cent American clothes for young America.

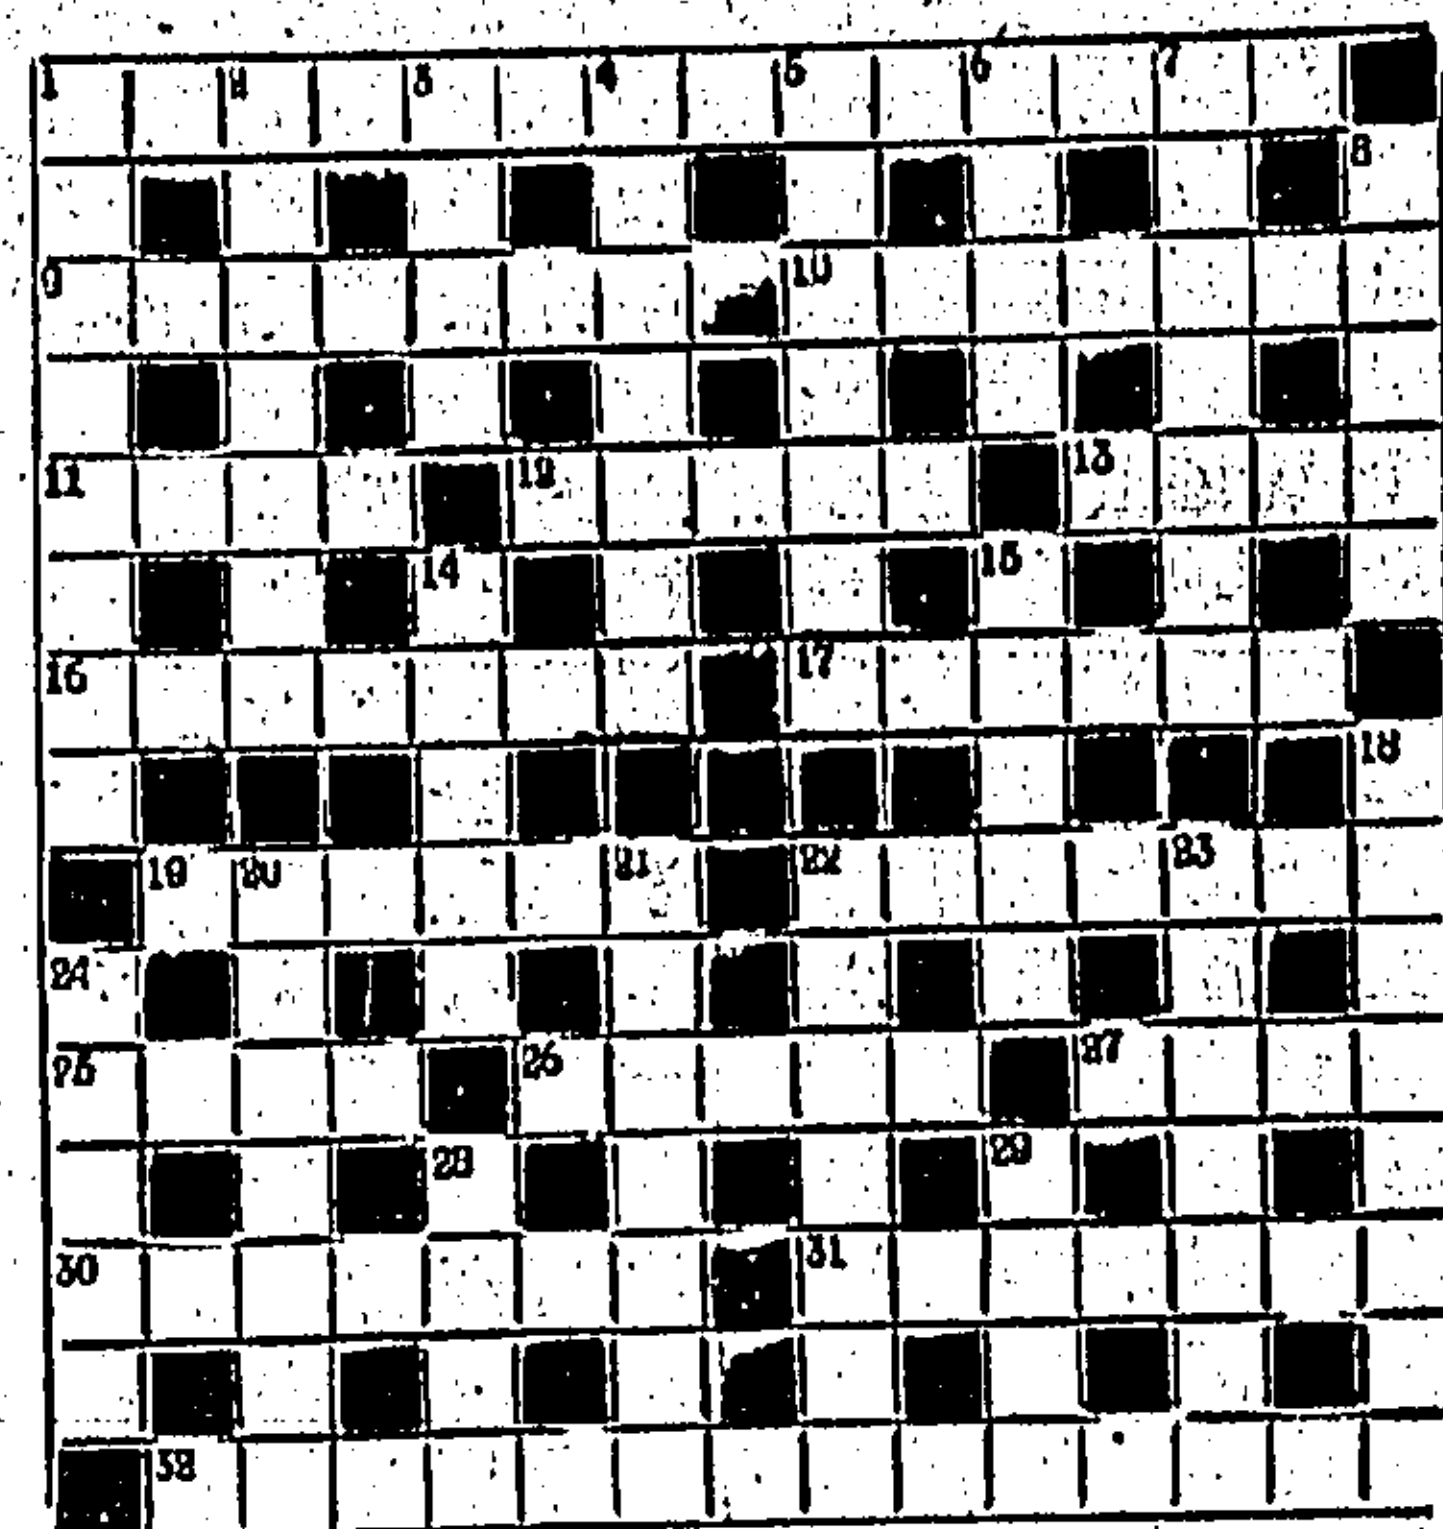

Probably her most arresting number is "Gentleman Jim," a gray wool evening ensemble, high waisted, fitted skirt, white slipper satin shirt, and a coat cut with long full-dress tail. This tail consists of a single long panel of the gray extending from the collar clear to the bottom of the skirt, thereby adding inches of any gal wearing it!

With his collection, Gladys Parker takes her place along with the few young American designers who know what American women should wear and undoubtedly will about them, quite in step with the down-to-brass-bucks era we are entering here in America; a light touch about them, "humorous," if you will. They are 100 per cent American clothes for young America.

FOR YOUNG AMERICA—(Left) "Bib and Tucker," an elongating white peau d'ango velvet dress, with brown lace plastron and an intriguing brown lace godet in the front of the ruffled skirt. (Right) "Dama Yankee," a ruffled skirt of military blue worsted, with youthful collar; red flannel loops for the big black buttons and a red flannel shirt tucked into the skirt. The miner's hat has a cord of the red flannel across the front.

"SHADOWS BY THE SEA"

A Summer Mystery BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

CHAPTER I

"Into the Darkness"

"What on earth is that boy staring at?" thought Leonard Setton, as he rounded a rocky promontory and came into view of Craverley Point.

There were shells on the beach of Craverley, and, so said the local guide-book, cornelian; but neither shells nor cornelian could account for the tense and earnest gaze with which a small, freckled, snub-nosed youth was boring the flat sand. The only object apparent to justify such strange intensity was a battered wreck, clawed down by unseen rocks a mile out at sea. This object however, was behind the small boy's head, and was clearly powerless to compete against the mysterious counter-attraction. Lower and lower went the small boy's head, till nose and beach almost met; and more and more curious grew Leonard Setton.

The boy was too engrossed to notice the new comer's approach, but the head came up with a jerk as soon as it was addressed.

"What's the excitement, youngster?" enquired Leonard. "Sand's cheap."

The boy did not reply immediately. He was not in mental condition to appreciate subtleties, and it took him a few moments to recover from the surprise interruption. While he was recovering, Leonard continued.

"I thought it was a purse with a thousand pounds in it, at least. It even occurred to me it might be King John's crown. But I can't even see a wrinkle, you know! What were you looking at?"

Then the youth replied, unsatisfactorily, "Nothing," and Leonard was about to suggest that in this case his bent position must have been due to a sudden attack of juvenile lumbago, when it occurred to him that perhaps he was not taking the lad seriously enough.

So he changed his manner, nodded, and observed genially.

"All right, sonny. It's your business, not mine—but I really thought you were staring at something interesting. Will you tell me if that building on the point over there is an hotel?"

The boy's mood underwent an instantaneous transformation. His gaze lost its vague animosity, and a curious eagerness entered his eyes.

"Yessir, that's a 'otel," he piped. "Merrmaid 'Otel." After a second's pause he added, with a tiny touch of pride, "I works there."

"Good! Then we may meet again," exclaimed Leonard, smiling. "That is, if you think I can get a room for the night."

"You'll git a room all right, sir," answered the boy, with such quick and odd assurance that Leonard glanced at him sharply. This appeared to abash him a little, and he corrected himself. "I think you will, sir," he said.

"It looks such a nice hotel that I hope I will," remarked Leonard, watching the boy with interest.

"Most hotels are packed in August. Isn't yours?"

"Doin' all right," murmured the boy, suggesting a truthful nature by the end way he lied. "Very poplar, the Merrmaid is." Suddenly noticing the athletic qualities of his interrogator, he added the information. "Got a tennis lawn sir."

"Then it'll suit me down to the ground," said Leonard, and all at once burst into laughter. "Look here, young man. Let's do a deal, you and me. Five shillings, if you'll tell me all about it?"

"Orl about what?" faltered the boy, his heart thumping financially.

"It. Everything. Why you were staring so hard at the sand just now? Why your hotel, with its wonderful sea views and its tennis lawn, isn't full up in August? And why you're so dead keen for me to go there?"

The boy hesitated. Five shillings was a lot. But he wasn't taking any chances.

"You'll go there, jest the same?" he demanded, suddenly.

"Jest the same," Leonard assured him gravely. "It's a promise. Forge ahead. Do you get a percentage on all the guests you bring along, or what?"

"It ain't that, sir," said the boy, seriously. "It's jest that the lily what runs the 'otel now—well, she's a bit down on 'er luck—"

"And you're trying to help her build it up again, eh?" interposed Leonard. "Well done! But what's happened to the lady's luck?"

"Well, sir—it's arter what's 'appened."

"What has happened?"

"Well, sir—you'd 'ave knowd soon, any'ow, so I don't 'pose it makes any difference, me tellin' yer." He lowered his voice slightly, and a tinge of irrepressible melodrama entered into it. "Er father walked off a week ago, and 'e ain't come back."

"By Jove, that's bad," said Leonard.

"Yessir. Orf 'e walked, inter the darkness, and that's the last we seed of 'im."

"The police have been on the job, I suppose?"

"Yessir."

"And that's had a depressing effect upon business, eh? Made some of the visitors get anxious, and go?"

"Yessir. Yer see, it ain't so—so comfortable like as it was, though Miss Fyne, she goes on jest the same." Sudden indignation surged through his juvenile breast.

"They all order stay, that's what I see, to 'elp 'er."

"Unfortunately, people don't always do what they ought to do," frowned Leonard. "I can understand that some of the visitors would feel uncomfortable."

"What about Miss Fyne feelin' uncomfortable?" retorted the boy.

"I 's'pose it's waitin' fer the body to be washed up's what does it."

"Steady, steady!" exclaimed Leonard. "Aren't you rather rushing matters? Is the idea, then, that he's drowned?"

"Well, sir, we orl 'as dif'rent ideas," responded the boy earnestly, as his mind harped back to kitchen discussions. "Some thinks 'e ain't drowned, some thinks 'e is drowned, and—and some thinks 'e was drowned."

"Oh! And which do you think?"

"I see 'e was drowned, 'cos if 'e'd drowned 'iself 'is body'd 'ave come ashore next mornin' with 'is boat."

"I see. He went out in a boat?"

"Yessir."

"When?"

"In the night it was. Nobody saw 'im go. And next mornin' the boat's washed up with nobody in it. But if somebody did 'im in, they'd try and 'ide the body, and it wouldn't come ashore not for some time, till it slipped from where they'd put it, and then it'd come ashore and they'd 'ave to keep a look out for it, wouldn't they? 'Course. So I slips down 'ere when I 's chance, and I looks at orl the new footmarks, afore the tide washes 'em, yus, and I got 'em orl down in a book."

"Good Lord!" murmured Leonard, blinking a little as he arrayed all these gruesome details. "And was that a footmark you were staring at when I came upon you?"

"Yessir," answered the boy. "Yer see, it was a new un. Not one of our guests, it wasn't, 'cos I knows orl them. I'm the boots."

"Then, for goodness' sake, take my size, and mark it 'Innocent'!" exclaimed Leonard. "I expect you'll find my footmarks many times on these sands. Did you say Miss Fyne was the name of the lady who runs the hotel?"

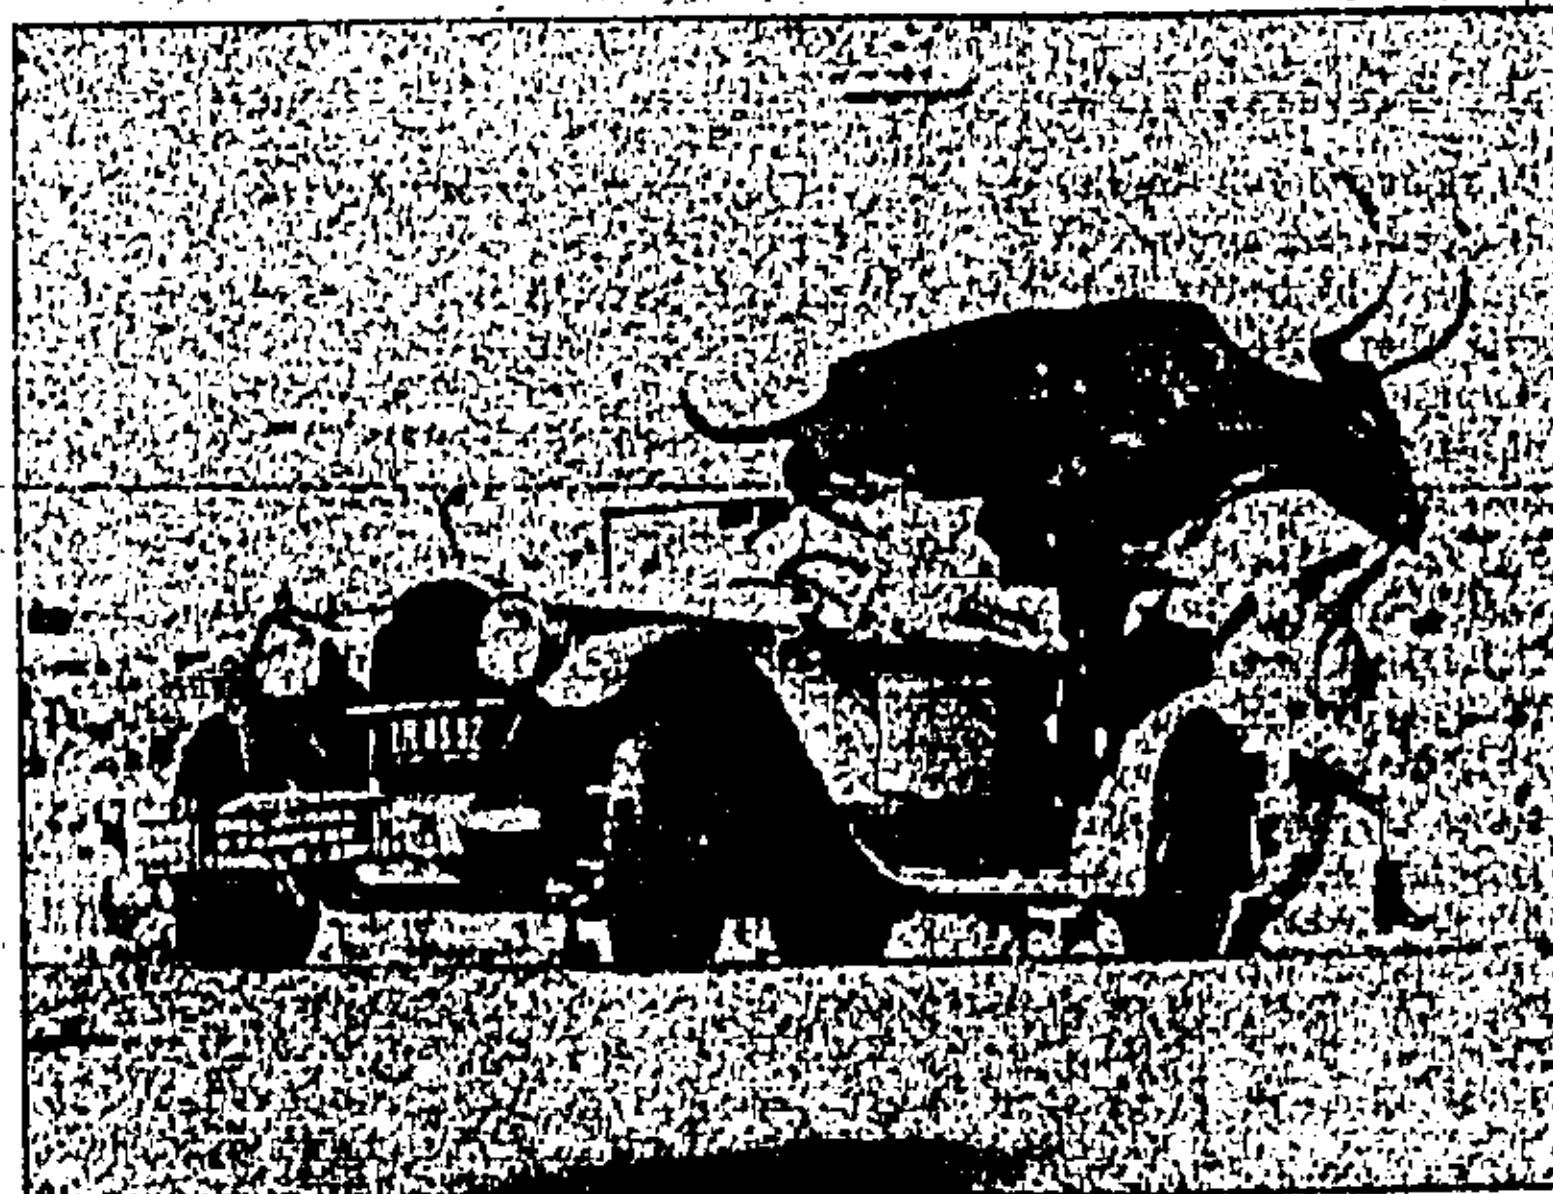

"Yessir."

"Thank you. Then I think I'll go and interview her. Here's your five shillings—you've well earned the money. Perhaps, if I book a disease, medical scientists so far have to confess their complete defeat. The cause, the duration of the infection, and the cure are quite unknown.

THE NEWEST DISEASE

The theory most generally favoured is that the malady is caused by a "filter-passing" virus; that is, by an organism so minute as to be invisible beneath the microscope's most powerful lens. The toxin of the virus displays an affinity with the grey matter of the brain, no part of which is immune from its attack.

Sleepy sickness, or encephalitis lethargica, is a comparatively new disease. It was first described in the winter of 1917 by the eminent Austrian physician Von Economo, when an epidemic occurred in Vienna. Very little, if anything, was known about it before then.

A TRAGIC MYSTERY.

In the following year cases were reported in England and France, and subsequently the disease assumed a world-wide distribution. It was christened encephalitis lethargica owing to the prominence of marked drowsiness as a symptom in the acute stages of those cases first recorded. Now lethargy is by no means an invariable symptom. Frequently it is associated with, or replaced by, an intractable insomnia.

The tragedy of the illness lies in its residual effects. Complete recovery occurs only in roughly 25 per cent. of cases. The remainder of its victims are more or less severely disabled and usually precluded from resuming their normal occupations.

Very pressing is the need for organized research into the prevention and cure of this disastrous visitation. Fortunately, the prevailing epidemic shows definite signs of abatement.

There is a persistent tendency in the lay mind to confuse sleepy sickness with sleeping sickness. The latter is a totally different malady, occurring as a fever in tropical Africa caused by a parasite conveyed by the tsetse fly.

Sleepy sickness remains a tragic mystery for the human race.

NAVAL "PIRATES."

STORY OF "UNREST" ON H.M.S. HOOD EXPLODED

London, Oct. 16.
The rumoured unrest on H.M.S. Hood, the largest battleship in the world, has been amusingly exploded by a story of the local Scots misinterpretation of a naval training exercise wherein seamen masqueraded as pirates at Invergordon.

Vice Admiral James, on the arrival of H.M.S. Hood at Banff, relates that four cutter loads of marines, representing a party of obnoxious "pirates," landed at Cromarty Firth and subsequently captured two drifters belonging to H.M.S. Ronow and H.M.S. Hood, whereupon the parent ships landed large parties of marines to round up the "pirates."

Local inhabitants, who much to their puzzled surprise, witnessed the episode of seeing sailors being chased by marines with fixed bayonets, undoubtedly initiated the story of unrest among the crews of the battleships.—Reuter.

H.K. UNIVERSITY UNION.

SIR WILLIAM HORNEILL ADDRESSES
COMING-OF-AGE ASSEMBLY.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE.

An exhortation to the under-graduates never to lose touch with the University or their fellow-students and to show the world that the University of Hongkong meant more to them than an institution where they amused themselves and passed examinations if and when they could, was made by Sir William Horneill, C.I.E., LL.D., Vice-Chancellor of the University, in a speech at the Coming-of-Age celebrations of the Union held yesterday afternoon.

The Union flag, flown at the mast-head of the Union building, was unfurled by Lady Peel, wife of His Excellency Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E., who was also present, attended by Capt. R. F. Walter, R.A., ADC.

There was a large gathering of the evils of life, those social and other wrongs which are to-day causing so much distress. You are critical of those in authority and you have or ought to have a feeling that you can do better. Well, when you leave the University see to it that you do better than your predecessors—do not lose touch with the University or your fellow students. Try and show the world that this University means to you more than an institution where you amused yourselves and passed examinations if and when you could.

The Greek tragedian, Euripides, puts into the mouth of one of his characters a saying about the famous capital of Laconia in ancient Hellas. This saying has become a proverb which in its Latin form is now the motto of one of Britain's great public schools—"Sparta is your country; make the most of it."

Hongkong is your University, make the most of it, not only while you are here but when you have gone out into the world. Make the most of your University and of your Union, not only for the University's sake, but for your own.

It gave him great pleasure to welcome His Excellency Sir William and Lady Peel to their celebrations, and on behalf of the student body, he thanked them for their kindness, especially Lady Peel for so graciously consenting to unfurl the Union flag.

A long string of fire-crackers was sent off immediately after the ceremony was performed.

Vice-Chancellor's Speech.

Addressing the assembly, Sir William Horneill said:—Your Excellency, Lady Peel, ladies and gentlemen: This is the Union's twenty-first birthday. The Union is the students' club, the centre of the students' social life. And the students are University students, not school boys and girls. They enjoy a liberty unsurpassed so far as I know in any other residential University in the world. Chinese preponderate but there are others—Indians, Filipinos, Portuguese, Malays. The student body is in fact a complex and to some extent a cosmopolitan one. But this all students, past and present, have in common. They are all members of the University of Hongkong.

The University Ordinance enacted that there should be established in Hongkong "an University with the name and style of the University of Hongkong, by which name the Chancellor and other members of the University are hereby constituted one body politic and corporate with perpetual succession and a common seal." The membership of this body corporate and politic has been conferred by statute on all graduates and undergraduates and no one can take this membership away from them. They cannot even give it up. For the last 21 years all students of the University whether they eventually graduated or not, have been members of the Union.

What Does It Mean?

Does this mean anything? Is it a mere empty formula? I am convinced that the undergraduates are proud of their University and their Union and jealous of their respective good names. I do believe that some of you have a sense of communal obligation. Were it not so, the Union would not be so well run as it is by the students themselves.

But an undergraduate when he graduates does not cease to be a member of the University. In January 1931, the Hongkong Graduates Association was formed with much enthusiasm and no little tea drinking. Then followed that power which battles the fiercest energy, the power of unresisting inertia. The Graduates Association has not been supported as it should have been. Many graduates in Hongkong are not members and those of the University's small groups of graduates who live in centres outside Hongkong and who might have been encouraged and helped to form branches in vital touch with the central association, feel isolated and neglected—a feeling which is rendered more poignant by the sight of other flourishing Alumni Associations which are not only holding their members together, but encouraging them to help one another. All this has been bitterly disappointing. And all this has got to be changed if this small University is going to justify its existence and the public money which has been spent and is being on it.

Sceptical Youth.

Youth is sceptical of all things that show no initiative, of speeches and of sermons. You students are beginning to see with all the shock of new experience, much pleasure in declaring the Exhibition open.

The Exhibits.

Not the least artistic of the organising committee's efforts was the production of a catalogue reproducing some of the most beautiful and interesting pictures and containing the names and addresses of the exhibitors together with particulars of their entries.

The 364 prints accepted were but 60 per cent. of the total sent in, the remainder being rejected. The entries were made up as follows:—194 landscapes; 37 still life; 97 figure studies; and 36 genre.

The largest contributor to the exhibition was of course the Colony with other parts of China, the number being 195; U.S.A. was second 166; then came Asia (excluding China) 67, Europe 59, New Zealand 44, and South Africa 6.

The President, the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., LL.D., showed some non-competitive pictures of a high standard and including landscape and human studies. Perhaps the best was a shadowed portrait of a statue whilst another was a remarkable reproduction of the quivering reflection of a junk in the water.

The best picture of the exhibition as awarded by the judges was "Odalisque," a classic study in the nude by Dr. Thorek, F.R.P.S. (U.S.A.). The exhibitor took Silver Urn with this paper negative but he was closely challenged by several competitors in this class which was one of outstanding merit.

An entry from Budapest of a Spanish beauty stepping out of her cloak was a thing of loveliness, and there were others whose grace and distinction would have made adjudication difficult, if they had not lacked a finishing touch or some item of perfection in general composition.

A Local Success.

The best picture of China was sent in by P. A. Dragon of Hongkong who thus won the Gold Medal given by Mr. F. P. Franklin. This photographer had entered a number of studies of local extraction and all were of fine taste and execution. The landscape class was perhaps the most difficult of all to judge but the print selected was a "Summer Day in South Canterbury," sent by a New Zealander.

This entry must certainly have taken full marks for general appeal, the scene selected being purely rural with a flock of sheep shown against tall trees and a road stretching to the horizon.

Although not picked out especially by the judges, "Versa in Lumiere," a twilight study, was outstanding.

The second in this class was "The End of Day" showing dark clouds touched with gold and fading gradually away into obscurity.

Original Entries.

The large latitude allowed in the genre class was fully employed and it was here that local competitors gained most of the successes. The first prize went to "Back Lane Gossip," of which two Chinese countrywomen were the subject. F. A. Dragon was again the winner whilst two more Colonists, Henry Dejung and W. H. Tann, took the second and third places.

The still life section drew some remarkable contributions, including a futuristic portrayal of an electric pylon outlined against a boisterous sky. The premier prize was awarded for a study of a plant which was mainly notable for its clarity.

The almost complete absence of animals as subjects of photography was commendable on the grounds of originality but there were some displays on the "grand old man" style which were more exceptional for the number of wrinkles they included than for nobility or character. There was one self-portrait, admirably executed and coloured to make a compliment card.

Are You Sceptical?

It is a peculiar trait in the human character that we regard with suspicion anything that we have not tried ourselves, no matter how highly others may speak of it. It is just this instinctive antagonism towards things new that gave rise to the proverb, "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." In most such cases a personal trial will banish any doubts where long-established and reputable products are concerned.

If you are feeling tired and overworked, have a poor appetite and are generally run down, your scepticism will almost surely vanish when you personally test the unique tonic merits of

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

For over fifty years and in every civilized country on the globe, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been steadily gaining, and retaining, an unequalled reputation for their blood purifying, blood enriching and nerve rebuilding powers. Their formula, the outcome of many years of study and experiment of a British physician—an M.D. of Edinburgh University, goes right to the root of health troubles caused by blood impoverishment, such as anaemia, nervous debility, premature ageing, indigestion and dyspepsia, neuralgia, back pains, palpitation, and the special ailments of women, also of maladies caused by blood impurity such as eczema, psoriasis, and skin eruptions.

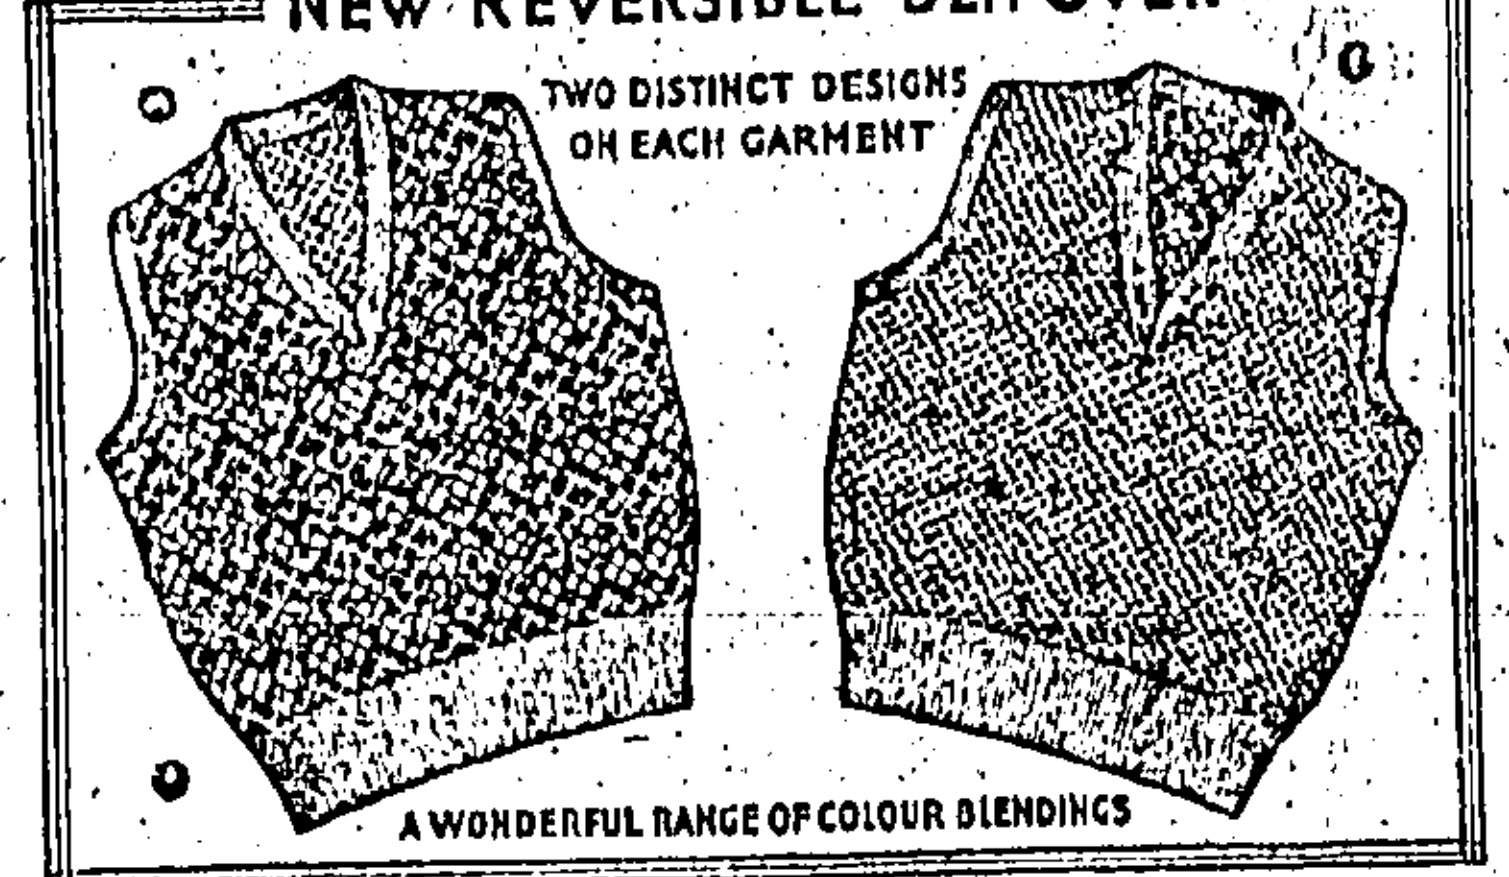

Give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills an honest trial. You will not be disappointed. Chemists everywhere sell them.

TRADE RECOVERY

It is only natural that some critics in America should be asking whether Mr. Roosevelt is going too fast; at the same time, critics in England are complaining that the British Government is going too slow. Both countries have been suffering from the fall in commodity prices, the drying up of markets, trade slackness and unemployment. In both, the supreme task of government is to remedy this situation. Yet the methods adopted seem to be utterly different. It is to be concluded that one government is right and the other wrong, or that a method which may be good in one country may be unsuitable in the other? In both cases the Government had to deal with a crisis in which public morale was temporarily shaken. The first step toward recovery under such conditions is to inspire confidence. It made a big difference in methods taken to attain this end—that the peak of the crisis was reached in Britain under the conditions of 1931, whereas it was not reached in the United States till early this year. In Britain it occurred at a moment following a long period of government expenditure which—in 1931—had to be denounced as extravagant and reckless. The world-wide alarm which led to a run on the Bank of England and a grave menace to the national credit was attributed to the extravagance of the Labour Government and its unbalanced budget. The problem of restoring confidence in Great Britain took, therefore, a special form. It demanded the balancing of the budget, heavy taxation, the cutting down of public expenditure, the restriction of imports, and a cautious policy of what was called "sound finance." Retrenchment, economy, sacrifice became the watchwords of the day. The measures which, it was felt, were necessarily taken at that time in Britain to restore national credit were in character the exact opposites of those which are now being taken by the United States. But they succeeded in achieving the immediate aim. It does not follow, however, that the plan which was right for England two years ago is right now. The Government, indeed, has been compelled to modify its attitude. It has felt it necessary to remove some of its economy restrictions, and to give more freedom to local authorities to use funds on public work. There is a growing body of opinion which is urging the Government toward a more enterprising policy, asserting that it ought to reverse the procedure of 1931 and take a few leaves out of the book of President Roosevelt. It is true, few British statesmen or economists urge their Government to go all the way with the President. His programme, they feel, would not

NOTES OF THE DAY

ANTIPIRACY MEASURES

Serious piracy in South waters has been dealt a succession of blows in recent months. The season has passed with few incidents and for this happy state of affairs, thanks are entirely due to the co-operation of the Canton Government with the local authorities. At least two planned attempts on ocean-going ships were frustrated by timely warnings from secret service agents while Blas Bay was robbed of the fruits of a third and more successful attempt by military intervention. Now a campaign is in full swing aiming at a thorough clean-up in the Blas Bay area. This is tackling the problem at the roots. If there is no safe landing-place, piracy will soon be brought to an end.

FREEDING FROZEN ASSETS

President Roosevelt is spending another thousand million dollars in order to pay the debts of closed banks to their worst hit depositors. In addition, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is to finance the banks themselves up to fifty per cent. of their deposits, involving probably, another thousand millions. If the aim of the Administration is complete control of banking policy, the programme must be well under way. The mystery is where the money is coming from, although the depositors who will benefit will not be expected to enquire too closely. Meanwhile, there is much talk of a return to a sound money policy in the United States. It would be rather interesting to know what would be accepted as constituting monetary inflation.

SHIFTING POPULATION

It will be interesting to see whether the end of the depression will bring any change to the startling new shifts in American population growth. Figures compiled by the Scripps Foundation for Population Research show that during 1932 American cities as a whole decreased in population by more than 400,000 persons. Farm population, on the other hand, increased in that year by 1,000,000. A great part of this was undoubtedly due to the depression. The cityward migration of farm youth was checked; and vast numbers who lost city jobs retreated to their parents' farm homes for the duration of hard times. Should prosperity return the old tendency probably will be resumed.

GERMANY AND JAPAN

The notation of the rumour that Germany consulted Tokyo before withdrawing from the League was, in a world atmosphere of suspicion, almost as certain as it was unlikely. It may seem strange that Japan should feel it necessary to issue a denial of the rumour, but such denial can well be accepted without reservation. There might be some value in the consultation suggested if Japan and Germany were not at opposite ends of the earth. As it is, Japan's support to-day would be totally valueless to Germany. And Germany can be of assistance to Japan only indirectly, by diverting attention from developments in the Far East. This is a thin basis for a dark plot against the rest of the world such as the rumour would obviously imply. Japan and Germany may very well find themselves in sympathy one with the other as comrades in isolation, but the bogey of active cooperation can lightly be dismissed.

be suited to the peculiar needs of England. But they do insistently urge that the time has now come, with credit standing high, to apply with great energy the stimulus of public works financed by public loans. The later stages of a trade depression afford a most favourable moment, it is argued, for stimulating the upward movement by an expansion of appropriate works—by making up arrears, by accelerating works already in progress. Those who take this view are not a few solitary voices crying in the wilderness. The main trend of vocal public opinion in England is in favour of a vigorous forward policy of public expenditure, not on so-called "relief works," but on constructive re-equipment—expenditure which would increase employment, create purchasing power, and permanently enrich the country. British opinion does not ask the British Government to copy Mr. Roosevelt, but it would welcome a policy animated by his boldness, enterprise and optimism.

WIVES WHO DREAD THE WILDERNESS

By RUSHTON HILL,

Formerly A.D.C. to Various Colonial Governors

IS the call of the East losing its charm? This clarion summons from the lands of the deserts and sun, which by tradition holds an irresistible appeal for the men and women of our country, seems to be falling now on less responsive ears.

A girl has in the last few days dealt the tradition another blow by breaking off her engagement to a young man because marriage would mean her having to go to live in a tropical country. She could not face it.

In the course of a not uneventful life I have lived and worked in many Eastern lands. In Egypt, Africa, India, and the Sudan I have served on the staff of various Governors, and have seen at close quarters women who have come from home either newly married or intending to marry when they land.

Many girls who sail from England to marry men out East change their minds a day or two before the ship arrives in port. It is a strange thing this panic.

Wait, though; is it so strange, after all? There is the thrill to the newcomer in the deep blue of the sea; the constant round of gaiety; the hospitality; the soft pad of the native servants whose feet make no noise; the blood-red sunsets that write across the sky in letters of flame, "This is the East; fall down, you, and worship."

You are held in delicious bondage—until you scream to be set free.

You realise that there is no more glamour, for example, in the bazaars of an Eastern town than there is in any village street in England.

We are told that those who drink of the waters of the Nile must always return to drink. But, believe me, the waters are not so potent as they may once have been.

Women newly out from home, after the first excitement of an entirely fresh order of living is over, begin to find that the soft-footed native servants can be very obstinate and deceitful. They discover that house-keeping in a language one does not know is an awful nervous strain.

I once saw a girl, the wife of a young district commissioner stationed at the back of the world, rush out into her compound, lift her eyes to the sky, and scream, "Rain, damn you, rain! Oh, this eternal sun!"

Once the East gets you down you stay down. Boats sail home every day from Eastern ports carrying young wives whose affection for the marriage tie has wilted under the strain of living a life for which they were never intended.

The East takes its toll, Heaven knows, of the men. How much more, then, of the women. There is an allure in the principal social centres of far-off countries, say, in Bombay in India, Cairo in Egypt, Khartum in the Sudan, or Entebbe in Uganda; a girl in any of these can have quite a good time.

Yet I know that in these same places, which boast the comforts of civilization, including tennis and cocktail parties, there hides the most cruel, the most appalling snobbishness and social pettiness—I write of what I know.

The wives of the higher officials have little to say that is kindly to or about the wives of the junior officials. Everyone has an order of precedence to stick to. Who betide a newcomer who oversteps the mark.

Have I painted too grim a picture of the East, the East of the story-books; that glamorous bourn whence no traveller is supposed to wish to return? I wonder.

In spite of it all, I am going to say this to any girl whose fiancé lives and works in the far places of the earth. Take the chance. Go out with him; try to stick the life.

After all, your days there will be fuller than any humdrum settling down at home. You will have difficulties to contend with, hateful things to put up with. But marriage can survive all kinds of shoals.

So go, my little friend. Go, and maybe you will find that the waters of the East are quite drinkable after all.

But no one who knows could honestly blame you if your heart begins to fall as your ship nears those palm-fringed frontiers beyond which life is so mysterious even when it is most boring.

THE NEWEST DISEASE

By a HEALTH SPECIALIST.

THERE American scientists have volunteered, in the cause of research on sleepy sickness, to be bitten by mosquitoes, believed to harbour the causal virus. The experiment is provoking widespread interest in medical circles. There was much talk about it in Harley-street.

The heroic nature of the experiment becomes more apparent when it is explained that, should the men concerned become infected, they will not only face the risk of death but, in the event of recovery, are likely to be severely and permanently disabled, mentally and physically.

The research assumes importance for medical men everywhere because at the present time the mode by which the disease is propagated is entirely unknown.

Sleepy sickness is recognised as being contagious, but only feebly so, direct infection from one case to another being a rarity.

Up to now there has been no evidence at all for its transmission by non-human agencies.

SCIENTISTS BAFFLED.

The possibility that the mosquito may play a role as carrier of the disease-virus has no doubt been suggested by the unusual time of year at which the prevailing epidemic has made its appearance. Sleepy sickness is, as a rule, a malady of cold weather and the winter, its incidence being most heavy during the first quarter of the year.

In spite of the tremendous amount of research, both clinical and experimental, that has been carried out in every country to elucidate the nature of its queer (Continued on Page 4.)

The Very Idea!

GIRLS, PRESERVE YOUR FIGURE

By Eddie Kelly, Sylph.

DO you want to preserve your figure? Would you like to get rid of that corporation?

People in all walks of life, and some who find it hard to walk at all, keep pestering us for information on how we preserve our sylph-like figure.

We will explain it here, once and for all. After this, we don't want to be bothered any more on the subject.

With us, we suppose it's a gift. We can reduce our bust measurement by about two inches simply by taking all the things out of our vest pockets. Exercise and diet are the main things.

As regards diet, Marlene Rich-diet recommends stoned raisins soaked overnight in lemon juice. We have not tried this, but we think it should be good. Ladies who are bad shots should get someone else to stone the raisins for them. Moderate sized stones should be used.

Oranges and lemons were used in days gone by by the belles of St. Clement's, who found them very beneficial.

Exercise should be taken in moderation. Here is a good one for reducing the hips: Stand erect with the hands on top of the head, and slowly raise the left leg to the level of the shoulder. Keep it there for five or ten minutes, then gently lower it to the ground. Do this ten times with the left leg and ten times with the right leg. Then do it with both legs at once.

Now for some more dieting. We diet very strenuously ourselves. First our breakfast, then diet; fifth, followed by a fairly light diet in order to prepare for afternoon tea, which should be followed by a fair amount of dieting until dinner time. If the system can stand it, one should fast from then until supper.

After supper to bed. A little exercise may be had by getting up a couple of hours after retiring and wandering around the house wondering if there was any of the rice pudding left over.

Don't be misled by weighing machines. Weighing machines are the most lying things on earth, and should be treated accordingly. When you see "230 lbs." on the dial, think of the number you first thought of and stick to it.

And don't be disheartened if results do not come immediately.

Slim women may look sick, but a fat woman stays. Ask any corset dealer.

"S.S. CRICKET"

We notice in a Router cable that the Australian cricketers have booked their passages for the 1934 tour to England.

Presumably they are travelling by one of the widely-publicised vessels of the Body Line.

SCOTS JOKE NO. 57,931

And, of course, you've heard of the Scotoman who saved all his toys so that he'd have them to play with in his second childhood?

MUSSED

They met upon the stair;
She reached his shoulder, just.
The light-switch happened where
His ready hand was thrust.
"Please don't," she cried, "my hair."
"You'll muss it," she was fussed.
He went on kissing her;
For if he mussed he must.

HANDICAPPED

Poor Gertie! We received the following letter from her yesterday, but, unfortunately, she omitted her address.

Dear Eddie.—What shall I do? I have the most innocent-looking eyes.

Men get to within an inch of my lips, and then draw back, saying, "You look so innocent!"

Dash my eyes! I want to live!

"I wish you would stop referring to me as the little woman."

AFRICA'S FLORA & FAUNA

CONFERENCE SEEKS TO PROTECT

SANCTUARIES TO BE ESTABLISHED

London, Oct. 16.

The protection of African Fauna and Flora by means of a revised International Convention will be the chief purpose of a Conference which will meet in London on October 31, and at which the Governments of Great Britain, Abyssinia, Belgium, Egypt, France, Italy, Portugal, Spain and Anglo-Egyptian Sudan will be represented.

The Governments of India, United States and Netherlands have nominated observers.

The Chief British delegate Lord Onslow will preside. Other British delegates will be Sir William Gowers, Senior Crown Agent for Colonies, Sir Arnold Hodson, Governor of Sierra Leone, and Mr. A. B. Acheson, Colonial Office.

A draft convention for the use as a basis of discussion has been circulated to other Governments by the United Kingdom Government. It contains suggestions for an agreed declaration of principle on the establishment of National sanctuaries, in which wild animals and plants may be preserved with due regard to the interests of native inhabitants of the various territories concerned, and also proposes measures to restrict killing of some of the rarer species of African animals.

It also deals with the various objectionable methods of hunting and other practices which have destructive effects upon wild life, and is designed to secure cooperation between the various administrations.—British Wireless.

GERMANY BLOCKS RESOLUTION

NETHERLANDS' MINORITIES PLAN

Geneva, Oct. 12.

Germany opposed discussion of the resolution submitted to the League Assembly by the Netherlands in regard to the protection of minorities, including Jews.

Consequently, although all the other States voted in favour of discussing the resolution, the matter had to be dropped, as a single vote is enough to prevent the discussion of any resolution.—Reuter.

Professor Einstein is reported by Havas to have approached the Turkish Government with a request that permission should be granted to fifteen German Jewish professors and thirty assistants to establish themselves in Turkey, under a promise that they will acquire Turkish citizenship after three years.

EX-EMPRESS ZITA

SPECULATION CAUSED BY ROME VISIT

Rome, Oct. 12.

Much speculation has been caused here by the visit of ex-Empress Zita, widow of the late Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary, who arrived here and was yesterday received by the King and Queen of Italy.

It is reported that the ex-Empress favours a marriage between her eldest son, the Archduke Otto, and the Italian Royal Princess Maria. Diplomatic circles are inclined to believe that her visit to Rome has been in order to realise this plan and furthermore to enlist the support of Italy for Archduke Otto in his claim to the Austrian throne.

HURRICANE TOLL

25 LIVES LOST WHEN SHIP SINKS

Twenty-five lives are believed to have been lost in the sinking on Saturday of the Grecian steamer Annoula in a hurricane off the North Carolina coast. It was stated by five survivors who have arrived in Philadelphia on the steamer Montello, which picked them up in a lifeboat on Sunday night.

The Annoula was a freighter of 3,127 net tons, built in 1908, and her home port was Argostoli.

The 8th Destroyer Flotilla left shortly after noon to-day for exercises, and will return on Friday.

NAVY BALL

TRAFALGAR DAY PLANS

The arrangements for the Navy Ball to be held at the Peninsula Hotel on Saturday will be similar to those of the St. George, St. Andrew & St. Patrick's Society Balls.

His Excellency the Governor & Lady Peel have kindly consented to attend.

Dancing will commence at 9.30 p.m., and, in addition to the programme, Seamen Boys from H.M.S. "Suffolk" will give a display of the Sailors Hornpipe. The popular and talented artists, Don and Sally, and the Worth Sisters will also entertain, together, during the evening.

The Management of the hotel have co-operated with enthusiasm in the Trafalgar Day movement, and have erected a replica of Nelson's Monument outside the Peninsula Hotel.

Tickets are obtainable from the Secretary, Navy Ball, H.M.S. "Tamar" and the Peninsula, Hongkong & Repulse Bay Hotels, at $10 each, including Buffet Supper and Refreshments. Ten per cent of the tickets sold will be allocated to the Trafalgar Day Fund.

A buffet supper with set tables will be served, which will be opened at 11.45 p.m.

For the convenience of those attending the Ball a special dinner will be provided at moderate cost at the Peninsula Hotel.

The Star Ferry Company will run late ferries at every half hour from 1.00 a.m. till 3.30 a.m. and Peak Trams will be available at frequent intervals.

use of patients whose treatment calls for plenty of air and sunlight.

EXTENSION BLOCKS.

The next two years will see the erection of the two extension wings which are also to be six stories in height. While containing special rooms for maternity cases and dispensing requirements the general accommodation in these two wings is somewhat on the same lines as the main buildings, with the addition that a portion will be set aside for children's cases.

Included in the work to be carried out next year will be the demolition of that section of the Tung Wah hospital on the south-west side of the Po Yan Street.

The new hospital will be equipped with flush installation and other modern conveniences, and served by an adequate number of lifts.

HAPPY COMPROMISE.

It has been remarked that a better site could have been found elsewhere for the new Chinese health centre than in such a congested area as that in which the present reconstruction scheme is now being carried out, but against this it is claimed for the new building that being much higher than the surrounding structures and provided with gardens as "lung" spaces, it will present the best compromise in necessitous circumstances. In this connexion it is also to be noted that the scheme calls for a decided widening of Po Yan Street which runs through the property, thus helping to relieve the congested appearance of this old native quarter.

STONE-LAYING CEREMONY.

The buildings have been planned by Mr. H. M. Su, well known local architect, who is also a member of the Hospital Directorate.

His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, has graciously consented to perform the ceremony of laying the foundation stone at 4.30 this afternoon.

STOCK MARKET REACTIONS

CITY CALM IN SPITE OF SITUATION

London, Oct. 16.

In view of the uncertainties of the International situation, dealers on Stock Exchange at the opening of the market, took usual precautionary measure of lowering the quotations.

There was, however, no suggestion of panic selling, and the city took the situation calmly.

Although little business passed prices were recovering steadily throughout the day and generally above the worst.

German bonds of 5½ per cent. were at 46½ and 7 per cent. at 79½. The British 3½ per cent. War Loan finished at 101 3/16. Home rails and industrials, and a Kaffir showed some recovery.—British Wireless.

AHEAD OF RIVAL.

CHARLES ULM REACHES CALCUTTA SAFELY

Calcutta, Oct. 16.

Charles Ulm, the Australian aviator, who is attempting to lower his countryman's record for the flight from England to Australia, now held by Sir Charles Kingsford Smith, arrived here to-day after a night flight from Karachi.

At Karachi, where Ulm arrived Sunday, his time from London was 2 days, 14 hours, 14 minutes, several hours better than his rival's. He remained there only two and a half hours, and flew all night to reach Calcutta to-day.—Reuter.

AN AIR SERVICE TO SHANGHAI

TO BE INAUGURATED ON OCTOBER 24

Definite information regarding the inauguration this month of the air service between Canton and Shanghai was brought to Hongkong yesterday by Mr. H. M. Bixby, vice-President of the Pacific-American Airway Corporation, who arrived from Shanghai by the Sikorsky amphibian monoplane in which he flew to Manila in August.

Mr. Bixby, together with seven companions, left Shanghai at 6 a.m. yesterday morning, landing at Kai Tak at 3.5 p.m.

Interviewed shortly after his arrival, Mr. Bixby stated that the China National Aviation Corporation will inaugurate a passenger and air mail service between Canton and Shanghai with a flight from Shanghai on October 24. Two Sikorsky amphibians will be placed into service and a regular bi-weekly time-table will be adhered to.

The planes will leave Shanghai every Tuesday and Friday at 6 a.m., and, with intermediate stops at Wenchow, Foochow, Amoy and Swatow, will arrive in Canton at 5 p.m. on the same days.

On the return flights, the machines will leave Canton on Wednesdays and Saturdays at 2.30 p.m. Overnight stays will be made at Swatow, and the flights will be resumed from Swatow at 6 a.m. on the next day, the planes landing at Shanghai during the same morning.

Air Mail First.

For the first thirty days it is not intended to carry passengers, air-mail only being taken. The rates of postage from either Canton or Shanghai will be 55 cents for each 20 grammes, or approximately two-thirds of an ounce.

Passenger services will be inaugurated on November 24, and tickets will be available between Shanghai and Canton at $270 Shanghai currency.

Questioned regarding the possibility of an extension to Hongkong, Mr. Bixby said that the matter had not yet been fully discussed.

"I anticipate that within a few months the service will be extended to Hongkong. I might mention that we have met with every courtesy in this Colony, both from the officials of the airport and the Government," he said.

"Ultimately, we will extend the service to Manila, but it will probably be at least a year before this will come into effect. Our flight from Shanghai to Manila in August demonstrated that the service was quite feasible, but we will have to obtain faster machines than those we intend using in the Shanghai-Canton service."

Manila Service. "Before the Manila service can commence, a lot of ground-work will have to be done. Radio communication, pilots, landing fields and fuelling are just a few matters that will need preliminary attention."

"Right throughout our flight from Shanghai to-day we were in radio communication with Hongkong, and when the service commences all our machines will carry radio operators."

Mr. Bixby added that he was leaving for Manila to-day by the Dollar liner President McKinley in connexion with the proposed Manila service.

The Sikorsky amphibian will leave for Canton this morning and from there will return to Shanghai, immediately after its arrival at Kai Tak yesterday, a Texaco launch pulled alongside, and refuelled the machine. Texaco Aviation spirit, it is understood, will be used exclusively by the machines in the Canton-Shanghai service.

In addition to Mr. Bixby, Mr. P. Y. Wong, Business Manager of the China National Aviation Corporation, Mr. W. S. Grooch and Mr. I. M. Carlson were passengers from Shanghai yesterday. The machine was piloted by Mr. Geo. Ruml and Mr. Wood, the latter also acting as radio-operator.

CONFUCIUS BIRTHDAY.

LOCAL CELEBRATIONS IN THE THEATRES

The customary celebration of the anniversary of Confucius birthday by local Chinese schools, firms and the various Confucian associations took place yesterday.

The leading association, the Confucian Society, held a concert at the Tai Ping Theatre. In addition to the musical and theatrical items, ably rendered by members, speeches on the work of Confucius were delivered.

The Chinese Confucian Association held a similar meeting at the Kau U Fong Theatre, while numerous Chinese schools celebrated the occasion with a holiday and tea parties or concerts in the evening. Many Chinese firms closed to observe the holiday.

GOLD DECLINES

HEAVY SLUMP OVER WEEK-END

London, Oct. 16.

The fall of two shillings ninepence in the price of gold since Saturday, when it was 123 shillings sixpence per fine ounce, is attributed to the selling of French francs for sterling.

Gold is now 74 pence below the record price touched on Oct. 3.

Heavy Selling.

Heavy offerings of gold currencies, as a result of Chancellor Hitler's coup, was the feature of operations on the Exchange to-day.

The American dollar appreciated from 4.57 to 4.47, while French francs were quoted at 81.78 after reaching 82.

The principal sellers were Americans, whose faith in the dollar was revived by the recent conversion scheme. It is believed the Equalisation Fund was partly responsible for the fall of the franc. German bonds were marked down sharply on the Stock Exchange but otherwise there was no change. Prices generally are easier and dealers are awaiting developments.—Reuter.

CAPTAIN IN NAME

HAI SHANG'S MASTER FINED $500

Captain A. Sprenger, master of the China Merchants' steamer Hai Shang, appeared before the Hon. Commander Newill at the Marine Court yesterday, to answer the charge of having arrived in the waters of the Colony on October 12 with more than 12 passengers on board and for disembarking here more than the number declared for Hongkong.

Boarding Officer Cairns, prosecuting, stated that at 4 p.m. on October 12 he boarded the steamer Hai Shang lying at the China Merchants' wharf. Owing to the large number of passengers disembarking, he was unable to go on board for about three or four minutes.

He interviewed the defendant and obtained from him his declaration to the Harbour Office. On this declaration the defendant had set out that there were 11 passengers on board for Hongkong and 64 through passengers.

In reply to Commander Newill, witness said that he did not count the passengers who were disembarking; but it appeared to him that there were more than the number stated on the declaration.

The defendant, who pleaded not guilty, said that he had no means of knowing whether the passengers were for Hongkong or for through ports. He could not control them, as that matter was in the hands of the Comprode.

Commander Newill: But you are the master?

Defendant (smiling): By name, Sir.

Defendant then said that he had repeatedly warned the Comprode not to carry passengers to Hongkong who were not declared on the certificate to the Harbour Office.

Commander Newill: You are liable to a fine of $100 for every passenger carried over and above those declared on your certificate.

Defendant: I have only called once in Hongkong and I do not know the law here. There has been no trouble in Shanghai. It is a matter entirely for the Company.

Commander Newill: That is a question of the internal organisation of the Company. Fine $500.

A stroke is the forward movement of the club made with the intention of striking the ball.

A ball is lost if it be not found within five minutes after search has begun, and, if subsequently found may not be played.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

I don't believe that you can count up that number of high card tricks in one hand, add it to the number in partner's hand and in that manner determine whether or not you can make a game or slam. I have seen too many hands holding six or seven tricks between them have difficulty in even game, while many hands that had only two to four tricks between them made a game and even a slam.

However, aces do play an important part in slam bidding, and when your partner starts making aggressive bids and slam invitations and you hold two aces and a solid suit, don't be afraid to bet into seven. Several players missed a grand slam on the following hand because they were afraid of their doubleton diamond.

The Bidding.
South bids one heart and West who is vulnerable, should not over call with two diamonds. North bids one spade—this is a one over one force.

If South held a doubleton diamond, I believe his next bid should be two clubs. However, he is void of diamonds, and has the Jack and one of his partner's suit, therefore I believe that he should make a slam try bid of three clubs. This is a forcing bid, assuring game,

♠A-K-Q-5-3	♥10-7	♦J-5	♣A-J-6-3
♠10-9-6-2	♥A-Q	♦A-Q	♣9-8-5
♠A-Q	♥A-Q	♦A-Q	♣9-8-5
♠A-Q	♥A-Q	♦A-Q	♣9-8-5
♠A-Q	♥A-Q	♦A-Q	♣9-8-5
♠A-Q	♥A-Q	♦A-Q	♣9-8-5
♠A-Q	♥A-Q	♦A-Q	♣9-8-5
♠A-Q	♥A-Q	♦A-Q	♣9-8-5
♠A-Q	♥A-Q	♦A-Q	♣9-8-5
♠A-Q	♥A-Q	♦A-Q	♣9-8-5

but at the same time it is a mild slam try.

North should bid four clubs to show the fit in clubs. South's next bid should be five hearts. While North holds only a doubleton heart, South's bid has clearly indicated to him that the heart suit is practically solid.

South is not afraid of making five hearts, even though North holds a singleton, so that the ten and x constitute good support. It is true that North has a doubleton diamond, but he has two aces and South is inviting a slam, so the correct response by North is seven hearts—not six.

West should not make the mistake of doubling simply because he holds the ace of diamonds. If he can win his ace of diamonds, he can rest assured that he will have a very good score on the board, while if his ace of diamonds is trumped, as the bidding has indicated it will be, he is sure to receive a poor score on the board.

REBELS TAKEN

FANG CHEN-WU AND ALLY CAPTURED

Peking, Oct. 16.
According to an official communique issued to-day, General
Fang Chen-wu and his ally,
General Chi Hung-chang have been captured.

Apparently realising the futility of their continued refusal to come to terms with the Government, and the danger of their position, the two commanders of the ill-fated expedition against Peking left their troops in the demilitarised zone and in disguise attempted to pass through the Government lines.

A Chinese patrol arrested them and they were brought this evening to the outskirts of Peking.

It is reported that their personal safety has been guaranteed and it is expected they will enter Peking to-morrow under open arrest.—

to Peking, he is still causing the authorities trouble.

Negotiations have again been broken off and an official communique states that this morning
General Fang's men attacked the Government forces at Shunyi, 20 miles north-east of Peking. The rebels were repulsed after two hours' fighting and after Japanese planes had dropped twenty bombs on them.—Reuter.

FRIEND DEPRECATES STORY OF APPOINTMENT

Boston, Oct. 16.

deprecates the story that Sir appointment to the Chinese

National Government in the capacity

Sir Frederick was approached last summer to obtain his services as adviser but nothing further was done, said Professor Wilson.—

PEKING WEDDING.

MR. ROBERT H. SCOTT MARRIES MISS DEWAR-DURIE

A marriage of considerable interest to Shanghai residents took place in Peking on Wednesday last week, when Miss Rosemond
Aelir Dewar-Durie was married to
Mr. Robert Heatley Scott by the Rt. Bishop F. L. Norris, D.D., in the Chapel of the British Legation at Peking. The reception took place in the house of Sir Eric and Lady Telchman, and the newly married couple then left for a short honeymoon in a Chinese temple in the Western Hills.

Miss Dewar-Durie came out to China some eight months ago on a visit to her brother, Lieutenant
R. V. Dewar-Durie, of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, at present attached to the British Legation for language study, and his wife, formerly Miss Joan Dolbey, a niece of Lady Telchman.
Mr. Scott has been in China for some years, and during the last two years as private secretary to Sir Miles Lampson has visited almost every treaty port in China, being present incidentally in Shanghai during the troubles last year.

If not international, the marriage is at any rate geographical—the bride was born in Persia and educated in England, the bridegroom was born in Scotland and brought up in the West Indies. Mr. and Mrs. Scott first met each other in Hongkong, the marriage took place in Peking, and
Mr. and Mrs. Scott leave in December for Uganda to visit his sister there; whence they plan to travel overland across Africa.

REBELLION OVER

FANG CHEN-WU IN TIENTSIN

CHI WANTS TO GO TO CUBA

Peking, Oct. 17.
Generals Fang Chen-wu and Chi Hung-chang did not, after all, enter Peking, but late last night motored instead to Tientsin, where they are now remaining pending a decision by the Government as to their future.

It is understood that they have expressed a wish to travel abroad, and it is expected that their wishes will be met.

General Chi Hung-chang, however, does not appear to have completely overcome his revolutionary instincts, as he says he wants to proceed to Cuba.

With the end of the rebellion, North China is looking forward to a period of peace and reconstruction after a hectic year of war, invasion and rebellion.—Reuter.

Chinese reports this morning alleged that the rebel generals had broken their parole and fled to Tientsin.

FIRE TRAGEDY INQUIRY

CARBON MONOXIDE
POISONING

FIVE QUESTIONS

An inquiry into the tragic fire at 36, Eastern Street on September 23, when six Chinese lost their lives, was commenced at the Central Magistrate's Court this afternoon, when Mr. Schofield, sitting as Coroner, opened an inquest on Lam Yiu-ching, 22, a woman victim.

The Jury empaneled was as follows:—Mr. G. Duncan, M.B.E. (foreman), Mr. H. Dreyer and Mr. V. Yvanovich.

The Coroner, addressing the Jury, drew their attention to five questions, namely: (a) the cause of death? (b) the cause of the outbreak of fire? (c) was escape possible, if not, why not? (d) did all the officers engaged at the fire do all that was possible for the safety of the deceased and four others? (e) any recommendations as to the safety of the building.

Dr. R. S. Begbie, the first witness, said that the cause of death was shock due to burning and carbon monoxide poisoning. Reply to the Coroner, the doctor said the carbon in the deceased's lungs was not enough to cause asphyxiation.

The hearing is proceeding.

AN ADJOURNMENT FOR TEN DAYS

FURTHER DETAILS OF POWERS' OFFER

GENEVA, OCT. 17.

THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE HAS ADJOURNED FOR TEN DAYS, FOLLOWING APPROVAL OF MR. HENDERSON'S REPLY TO GERMANY'S MESSAGE OF WITHDRAWAL, DECLARING INABILITY TO ACCEPT THE REASONS GIVEN AS VALID.

Dr. Benes, Czecho-Slovakia, the rapporteur of the Disarmament Conference, expresses the opinion that a Disarmament Convention through negotiations by the Great Powers is impossible. It must come through Geneva.

The best course to follow at the present time, he said, was to give Germany time to appreciate the real facts of the situation, and let a sense of complete isolation thoroughly sink in.—Reuter.

DEFINITE PROGRAMME DRAWN UP

London, Oct. 16.
The Disarmament Conference today decided on a ten days' adjournment to enable the delegates to consult their respective Governments in regard to the situation created by Germany's withdrawal.

The Bureau of the Conference will meet again on October 26 and the General Commission on the day following.

Before adjourning, the delegates adopted the text of the reply to Germany's notification of withdrawal from the Conference.

This reply, which has been despatched by the President of the Conference, Mr. Arthur Henderson, to Baron von Neurath, the German Foreign Minister read as follows:

INOFFORTUNE MOMENT.

"I have now communicated to the General Commission your Excellency's telegram of October 14th announcing the decision of the German Government to discontinue participating in the work of the Conference for the reduction and limitation of armaments and indicating the reasons for that decision.

"The German Government took this step at a moment when the Bureau had just decided to submit to the General Commission a definite programme.

"This programme was to be completed within a limited period and provided for the realisation progressively, in accordance with the resolution of the Conference in which Germany herself had concurred, of a reduction of armaments comparable with those contemplated in the convention submitted to the General Commission.

"This programme provided also security and of the realisation of that equality of right which the German Government had always placed in the forefront of its demands.

"I regret the grave decision which has been taken by your Government for reasons which I am unable to accept as valid."

PEACE OR COLLAPSE

MR. HENDERSON'S WARNING

INTERNATIONAL ANARCHISTS

Geneva, Oct. 16.
The choice before us is peace or war, progressive disarmament by world action or a mad race to increase both defensive and offensive weapons of war, peaceful development of the world or a collapse into barbarism," declared Mr. Arthur Henderson, President of the Disarmament Conference in a broadcast speech to-night.

With our experience of the horrors and savagery of modern war, no effort should be spared to avert calamity.

It is vital, he said, that the Disarmament Conference should produce a genuine convention despite Germany's withdrawal. "We cannot let world law and order be undermined by international anarchists, no matter on what pretext they propose to float the law."

SCRAPS OF PAPER?

Mr. Henderson continued: "Through world co-operation based upon the upholding of the Covenant of the League and the Paris Peace Pact, we can finally get disarmament and make peace secure, but if we suffer treaties to become scraps of paper, we shall not get disarmament but another war."

"A grave and terrible responsibility, therefore, rests upon us all to see that the collective peace system based upon the League is not destroyed."—Reuter.

The British Disarmament delegation, left to right: Sir John Simon, Anthony Eden, and Lord Tyrrell, the British Ambassador in Paris. Mr. A. M. G. Cadogan, shortly leaving for China to take up the office of British Minister, is behind.

BRITAIN'S STAND

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S ATTITUDE

PRECIPITATE & ILL-JUDGED

London, Oct. 16.
The first member of the British Cabinet to make any public comment upon Germany's withdrawal from the Disarmament Conference was Mr. Neville Chamberlain.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the course of a speech at Nottingham, described Germany's action as "precipitate and ill-judged."

He thought that the decision was exceedingly regrettable.

Mr. Chamberlain emphasised that Sir John Simon's proposals, seeking to reduce Franco-German differences to a minimum, were supported by France, the United States and Italy.

They were, he added, designed to give Germany complete equality of treatment within a reasonable period.

FUTURE COURSE.

The situation demanded very calm and very deliberate consideration. He deprecated any "hasty comment, any alarmist speculation, and urged that judgment should be reserved until the representatives of Great Britain and other countries have consulted regarding the implications of "this unfortunate incident," and on the course which ought now to be pursued.—Reuter.

EX-KAISER HAILS HITLER

APPLAUDS LEAGUE RECESSION

MONARCHICAL ISSUE

Amsterdam, Oct. 16.
The ex-Kaiser gave an interview to-day on the latest developments in the disarmament situation.

He applauded Herr Hitler's action warmly and said that the only surprising thing was that Germany had remained a member of the League of Nations for so long.

Germany, he declared, entered the League with honest intentions, but had always been treated upon an unequal footing.

The former Kaiser added, when questioned, that there was no likelihood of his immediate return to Germany. The question had not been raised.

He fully realised that Herr Hitler at the present time had other things to think of than the restoration of the Monarchy, which, in any case, was not a part of the Nazi programme.—Reuter.

The wedding is announced to be celebrated in the near future of Pte. James Leale Bryant, Lincolnshire Regt., Shamshuh Camp, and Miss Lucy Leong, dancing girl, of 77, Jaffe Street.

WHEAT EMBARGO

DAKOTA PROTEST ACTION

U.S. MONETARY OUTLOOK

New York, Oct. 16.
It is learned from Bismarck, North Dakota, that the Governor has proclaimed an embargo upon the export of wheat from the State as from midnight on October 19.

The embargo will be continued indefinitely, its object is to raise prices and to draw the attention of the nation to the plight of the farmers.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation to-day announced that it had allocated $250,000,000 to the Commodity Credit Corporation for cotton loans.—Reuter.

The possibility of an early stabilisation of the dollar to the pound sterling under a plan that would give silver an improved monetary standing is, however, still regarded as the most important factor in the present situation.

While officials say they have no announcement to make regarding actual monetary affairs, several important financial statements have been issued and New York reports that the governors of the Federal Reserve Banks are already working out the basis for stabilisation have not been denied.

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross and the Under-Secretary of Treasury, Mr. Dean Acheson, alike decline to comment on the progress of the debt conversations.

Financial and monetary experts agree that that stabilisation should precede any debt agreement. The sudden slump in gold values in London may not be entirely disconnected.

"NOT FAR OFF"

Wall Street attributed the improvement in the dollar quotation to reports which, certain bankers declare were reliable, that "stabilisation is not far off."

While the Government is apparently awaiting the completion of its present financing programme and certain other matters before issuing any statement regarding the monetary situation, bankers everywhere interpret the Administration's moves as indicating a sound money policy.

80,000 STEEL STRIKERS

Washington, Oct. 16.
Mr. Harold L. Ickes, the Secretary of the Interior, has fixed the minimum prices of petroleum and its products, to become effective as from December 1.

The basis is 38-gravity mid-Continent crude oil fixed at U.S. $1.11 per barrel, other prices varying upward and downward according to quality.

The Labour Board have settled the strike of 80,000 steelworkers in the Pittsburg area.—Reuter.

GERMANY NOT TO REPLY

"We Have Said Our

Berlin, Oct. 16.
Germany does not intend to reply to Mr. Arthur Henderson's letter according to Baron von Neurath, the German Foreign Minister, who, when interviewed by Reuter to-day, said: "If they think our reasons are not well-founded, I must leave that to them. We have said our say."—Reuter.

The affair was nipped in the bud when police raided a house known to be a Nazi meeting-place and arrested an acting Lieutenant in the Austrian Army and a number of higher officers and civilians.

They were found to be in possession of detailed plans for the seizure of Linz Garrison. All arrested will be charged with high treason.—Reuter.

Says Specialist

Many women feel that they must be constantly dabbling on powder in order to prevent their skin from becoming dry and cracked. They never stop to realize what effect this may have upon their skin.

A new and clever idea now enables any woman to powder once in the morning and have it last all day. A teaspoonful of mousse de cream added to a favourite face powder makes it softening and adherent. It stays on in spite of sun, wind or rain and even in the hottest bathroom.

In Powder Tokalon, the mousse de cream is scientifically blended with the finest air-dusted powder. Thus, Powder Tokalon is the only genuine mousse de cream face powder. It acts as a splendid skin tonic, stimulating the tissues and never clogging the pores—such as constant powdering makes. Apply Powder Tokalon to-morrow morning to your own face and watch results.

Winter Gowns With a Sense of Humour

"FLAPPER FANNY" ARTIST INTRODUCES SOME ORIGINAL DESIGNS FOR LITTLE WOMEN

By Joan Savoy

New York.—A new young American designer appears in the Fashion constellation—Gladys Parker.

Already widely famed for her "Flapper Fanny" drawings and her fashion sketches, "Femininities"—both of which are regular features of (YOUR PAPER)—Gladys Parker now launches an entire line of winter clothes which she has designed and made for little women.

Staging a one-girl fashion show, to soft music and against a background of flowers, Miss Parker presented her 18 new costumes to an enthusiastic audience in New York. Miss Parker modelled at least half of the costumes herself!

"Everybody can't be beautiful. But you can at least be amusing," is her underlying philosophy. And so she sub-titles her new designs "clothes with a sense of humour."

"All women want to look tall and slender," Miss Parker states. "So I have eliminated belts, put all skirt fullness and decoration low, between the knee and ankle, designed collars that are high in front and in several dresses have entirely done away with hip seams. And I have used long, straight silhouettes, plain colours or stripes."

Smart, original, attractive-wearable clothes this young woman has made. Take "White Collar Job," for instance, a sleek black wool office dress that any smart woman would crave the minute she saw it, for its individuality and utter charm. The vestee is striped white velvet, made in Miss Parker's "barber shop collar" design, a high, crushed front, but, toned-in-the-back collar that resemble, not a little, the barber's apron you wear when you get a hair-cut.

"Bib and Tucker" is the kind of slinky, romantic dress that a college miss would adore. Made of white peau d'ange velvet, it fits the figure sleekly, with no belt, leaving a heightening of white from the tiny double ruffled hem to the collar. An arresting, and very pleasing contrast comes via the bib, a plastron of brown lace which ties in a little bow at the back of the neck. Then, in airen fashion, with just enough of a "Lady Lou" suggestion, there is a godet right smack in the front of the skirt of the same brown lace, through which you glimpse a pair of neat ankles, as the wearer dances about.

There's a practical turn of mind to little Miss Parker's clothes, too.

"I think women want clothes that won't wrinkle and muss. Fuses and feathers on clothes make them so very hard to keep right. So I have used worsteds and ribbed failles that stand up under wear; fine, sheer worsteds for evening; hat won't have to be pressed every time you pack them for a week-end house party, and have eliminated extra decorations of all kinds."

Double-panelled backs are an innovation in this collection. With them you can sit in peace, knowing the back of your skirt won't be all wrinkled when you stand up! Colours are all gorgeous rich tones, a heavenly pansy shade, used with cerise; plum, rust coloured twill, wine faille and eel gray.

Her names for her new clothes are every bit as original as the costumes themselves. "Business Before Pleasure" is a gray striped woollen street dress with large black buttons. "Little Colonel" is swishes just the right bit.

an eel gray broadcloth suit with the cutest tucked, front and back, ribbed silk shirt. "Anytime Annie" is a soft green wool crepe. "Damn Yankee" is the kind of a smart little military blue wool suit that every youngster would adore. It has a red flannel shirt, neatly tailored with turn-down collar, and red loops for its big buttons.

The fireman's hat that goes with it has now hatline that fall hats follow. "Salome" is a young charmer's ideal, a sleek dinner gown of black faille with a white-satin collar. "Hussy" is an enchanting princess cut gown of black panne velvet, designed to make any girl look unbelievably tall, slender and ravishing. It has a winter-1934 touch—a little drape on the left side, low, in the skirt, which black buttons. "Little Colonel" is swishes just the right bit.

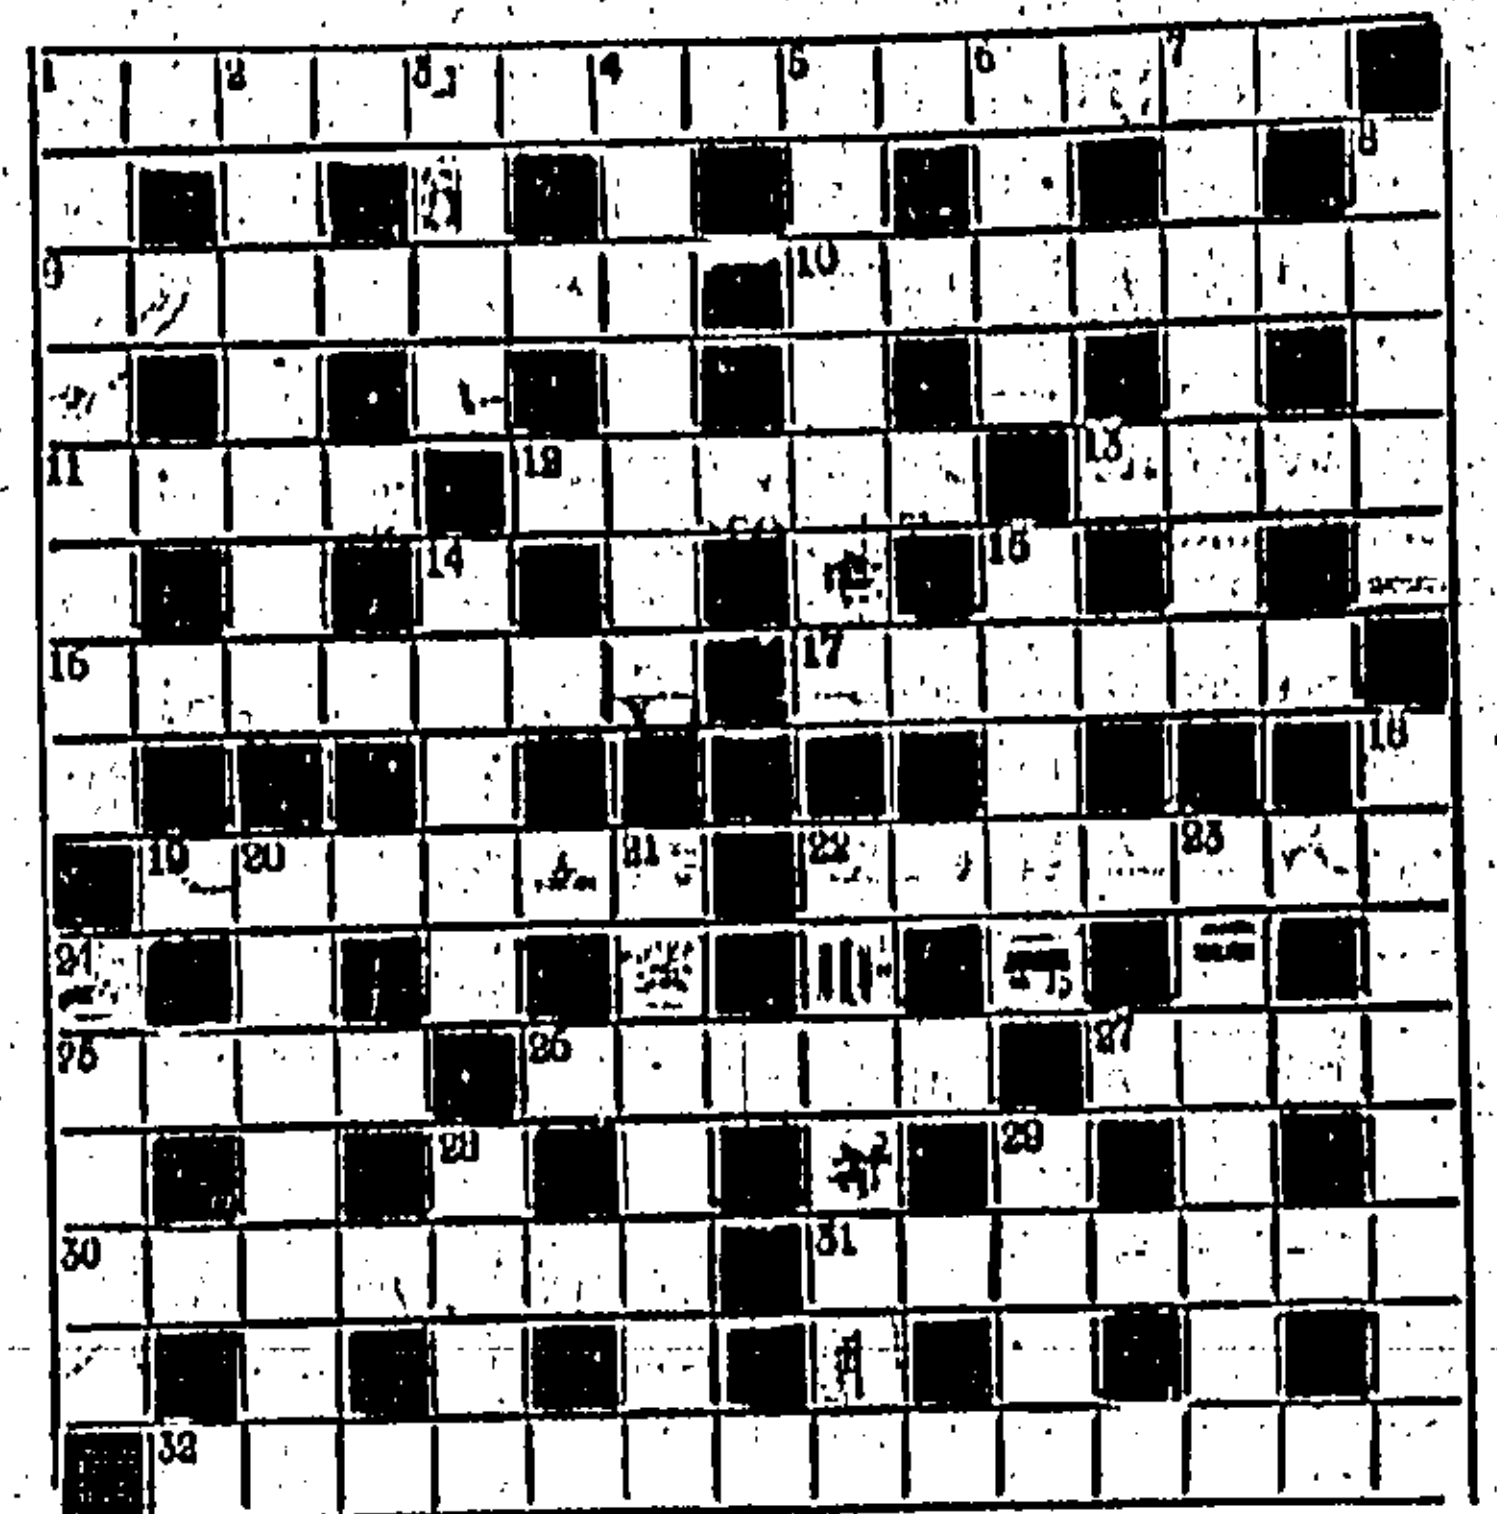

FOR YOUNG AMERICA—(Left) "Bib and Tucker," an elongating white peau d'ange velvet dress, with brown lace plastron and an intriguing brown lace godet in the front of the ruffled skirt. (Right) "Damn Yankee," a fall suit of military blue worsted, with youthful collar; red flannel loops for the big black buttons and a red flannel shirt tucked into the skirt. The miner's hat has a cord of the red flannel across the front.

Probably her most arresting number is "Gentleman Jim," a gray wool evening ensemble, high waisted, fitted skirt, white slipper satin shirt, and a coat cut with long full-dress tail. This tail consists of a single long panel of the gray extending from the collar clear to the bottom of the skirt, thereby adding inches of any girl wearing it!

With his collection, Gladys Parker takes her place along with the few young American designers who know what American women should wear and undoubtedly will want. There's a fine realism about them, quite in step with the down-to-brass-tacks era we are entering here in America; a light touch about them, "humorous," if you will. They are 100 per cent American clothes for young America.

"SHADOWS BY THE SEA"

A Summer Mystery BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

CHAPTER I

"Into the Darkness"

"What on earth is that boy staring at?" thought Leonard Sefton, as he rounded a rocky promontory and came into view of Craverley Point.

There were shells on the beach of Craverley, and, so said the local guide-book, cornelian; but neither shells nor cornelian could account for the tense and earnest gaze with which a small, freckled, snub-nosed youth was boring the flat sand. The only object apparent to justify such strange intensity was a battered wreck, clawed down by unseen rocks a mile out at sea. This object however was behind the small boy's head, and was clearly powerless to compete against the mysterious counter-attraction. Lower and lower went the small boy's head, till nose and beach almost met; and more and more curious grew Leonard Sefton.

The boy was too engrossed to notice the new comer's approach, but the head came up with a jerk as soon as it was addressed.

"What's the excitement, youngster?" enquired Leonard. "Sand's cheap."

The boy did not reply immediately. He was not in mental condition to appreciate subtleties, and it took him a few moments to recover from the surprise interruption. While he was recovering, Leonard continued.

"I thought it was a purse with a thousand pounds in it, at least. It even occurred to me it might be King John's crown. But I can't even see a wrinkle, you know! What were you looking at?"

Then the youth replied, unsatisfactorily, "Nothin'" and Leonard was about to suggest that in this case his bent position must have been due to a sudden attack of juvenile lumbago, when it occurred to him that perhaps he was not taking the lad seriously enough.

So he changed his manner, nodded, and observed genially.

"All right, sonny. It's your business, not mine—but I really thought you were staring at something interesting. Will you tell me if that building on the point over there is an hotel?"

The boy's mood underwent an instantaneous transformation. His gaze lost its vague animosity, and a curious eagerness entered his eye.

"Yes, sir, that's a 'otel," he piped. "Mermald 'Otel." After a second's pause he added, with a tiny touch of pride, "I works there."

"Good! Then we may meet again," exclaimed Leonard, smiling. "That is, if you think I can get a room for the night."

"You'll git a room all right, sir," answered the boy, with such quick and odd assurance that Leonard glanced at him sharply. This appeared to abash him a little, and he corrected himself. "I think you will, sir," he said.

"It looks such a nice hotel that I hope I will," remarked Leonard, watching the boy with interest. "Most hotels are pucked in August. Isn't yours?"

"Do'n' all right," murmured the boy, suggesting a truthful nature by the bad way he lied. "Very pop'lar, the Mermald is." Suddenly noticing the athletic qualities of his interrogator, he added the information. "Got a tennis lawn sir."

"Then it'll suit me down to the ground," said Leonard, and all at once burst into laughter. "Look here, young man. Let's do a deal, you and me. Five shillings, if you'll tell me all about it?"

"Orl about what?" faltered the boy, his heart thumping financially.

"It. Everything. Why you were staring so hard at the sand just now? Why your hotel, with its wonderful sea views and its tennis lawn, isn't full up in August? And why you're so dead keen for me to go there?"

The boy hesitated. Five shillings was a lot. But he wasn't taking any chances.

"You'll go there, jest the same?" he demanded, suddenly.

"Jest the same," Leonard assured him gravely. "It's a promise. Forgo ahead. Do you get a percentage on all the guests you bring along, or what?"

"It ain't that, sir," said the boy, seriously. "It's jest that the lily whint runs the 'otel now—well, she's a bit down on 'er luck—"

"And you're trying to help her build it up again, eh?" interposed Leonard. "Well don't! But what's happened to the lady's luck?"

"Well, sir—it's arter whint's 'appened."

"What has happened?"

"Well, sir—you'd 'ave knowd soon, anyow, so I don't s'pose it makes any difference, me tellin' yer." He lowered his voice slightly, and a tinge of irrepressible melodrama entered into it. "Er father walked off a week ago, and 'e ain't come back."

"By Jove, that's bad," said Leonard.

"Yes, sir. Orf 'e walked, inter the darkness, and that's the last we seed of 'im."

"The police have been on the job, I suppose?"

"Yes, sir. And that's had a depressing effect upon business, eh? Made some of the visitors get anxious, and go?"

"Yes, sir. Yer see, it ain't so—so comfortable like as it was, though Miss Fyne, she goes on jest the same." Sudden indignation surged through his juvenile breast.

"They all order stay, that's what I see, to 'elp 'er."

"Unfortunately, people don't always do what they ought to do," frowned Leonard. "I can understand that some of the visitors would feel uncomfortable."

"What about Miss Fyne feelin' uncomfortable?" retorted the boy. "I s'pose it's waitin' for the body to be washed up's what does it?"

"Steady, steady!" exclaimed Leonard. "Aren't you rather rushing matters? Is the idea, then, that he's drowned?"

"Well, sir, we orl 'as dif'rent ideens," responded the boy earnestly, as his mind harped back to kitchen discussions. "Some thinks 'e ain't drowned, some thinks 'e is drowned, and—and some thinks as 'e was drowned."

"Oh! And which do you think?"

"I see 'e was drowned, 'cos if 'e'd drowned 'iself 'is body'd 'ave come ashore next mornin' with 'is boat."

"I see. He went out in a boat."

"Yes, sir."

"In the night, it was. Nobody saw 'im go. And next mornin' the boat's washed up with nobody in it. But if somebody did 'im in, they'd try and 'ide the body, and it wouldn't come ashore not for some time, till it slipped from where they'd put it, and then it'd come ashore and they'd 'ave to keep a look out for it, wouldn't they? 'Cos, so I slips down 'ere when 'as chance, and I looks at orl the new footmarks afore the tide washes 'em yus, and I got 'em orl down in a book."

"Good Lord!" murmured Leonard, blinking a little as he arrayed all these gruesome details. "And was that a footmark you were staring at when I came upon you?"

"Yes, sir," answered the boy. "Yer see, it was a new un. Not one of our guests, it wasn't, 'cos I knows orl them. I'm the boots."

"Then, for goodness' sake, take my size, and mark it 'Innocent'!" exclaimed Leonard. "I expect you'll find my footmarks many times of these sands. Did you say Miss Fyne was the name of the lady who runs the hotel?"

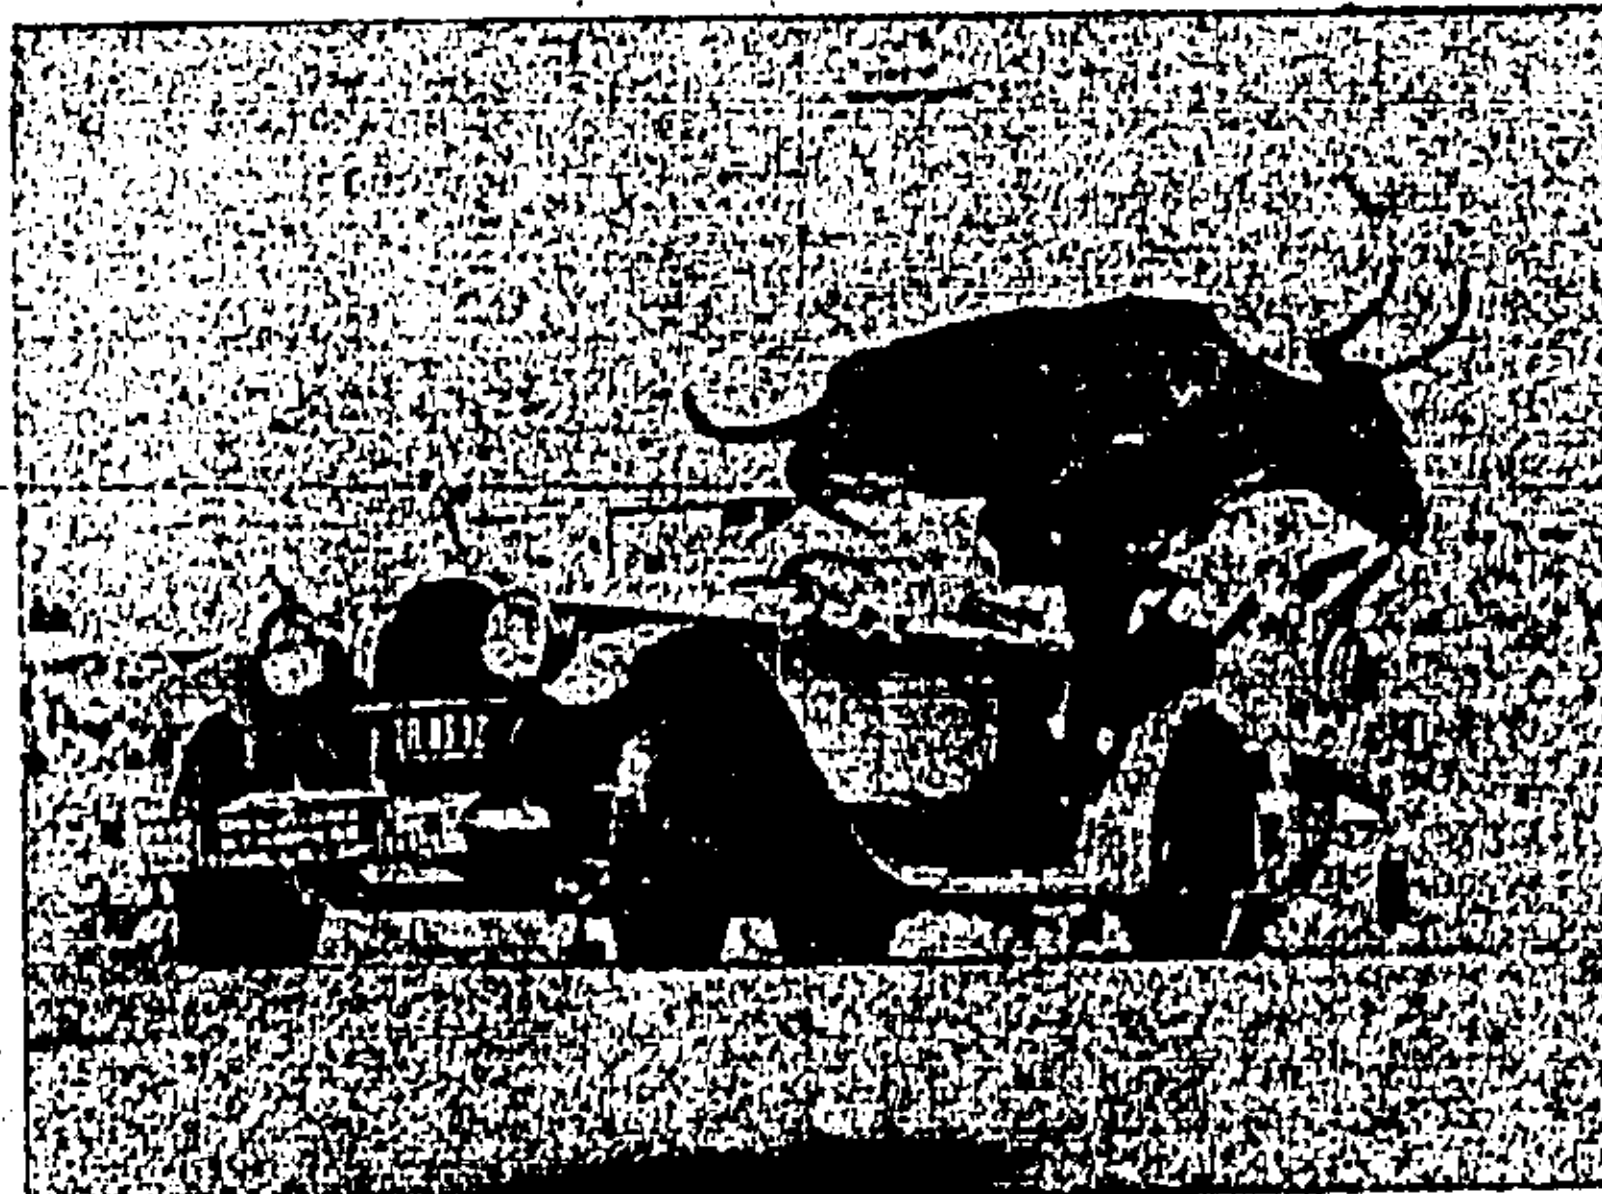

"Yes, sir."

"Thank you. Then I think I'll go and interview her. Here's your five shillings—you've well earned the money. Perhaps, if I book a

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET EASY

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was easy yesterday. Business done was 2,670,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market:

The market declined due to liquidation of European situation, heavy foreign selling and strengthening U.S. dollar. There was a slight firming tendency near the close. The grain markets broke with the stock market. There is a rapidly abandoning the gold francs may be a business reports standard. "Well" stocks weakened due to the Government's announcement that no more confiscated liquor would be destroyed which caused some to interpret that the Government itself might enter the liquor business. Our New York Office Cable. (This morning).

Stocks: On account of unsettled foreign situation, commodity weakness and strength of the U. S. dollar the market declined and the volume indicates a selling climax. Wheat: Unsettled abroad, erratic sterling action, scattered liquidation near the close. Cotton: Nervousness over the European situation and action of the other markets, rather than any new factor in the cotton situation, caused the decline. The ten cent loan to farmers should become more attractive at this level and should accentuate holding. Silver: The market closed weak on heavy liquidation. Our Night Service "Tele" Liquidation unit created within RFC to free frozen deposits which will result in bank credit inflation.

LADY CONTESTS EVIDENCE

MISS CISSY WONG SUMMONED

Summoned before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning for allowing two dogs out in the street at 7.45 a.m. without muzzles, Miss Cissy Wong of the Kwong Lee Dairy Co., admitted the offence, but stated that the constable had made a mistake as regards the time.

She explained that several thefts had occurred recently and had in order to stop them, she had let the dogs loose from 4 till 6 a.m. every day. On the day in question, the Indian constable had to wake up the workmen, and as the workmen always got up at 6 o'clock, the dogs must have been out in the street much earlier than 7.45 a.m.

The magistrate—Were you there at the time?

Miss Wong—No, but my No. 1 told me the constable had to wake the workmen up.

The magistrate—Have you got him here?—No.

Then I am afraid I can't accept your statement. I am sorry.

A fine of $3 was imposed on each of the two summonses.

CHINESE HEALTH CENTRE

TUNG WAH SCHEME

BIG THREE-YEAR PROGRAMME

MODERNISATION

(Special to "Telegraph")

A large-scale scheme is now well under way for the complete reconstruction of the Tung Wah Hospital at Po Yan Street, comprising the building of a six-storey modern concrete structure and other appendages.

With this is involved a drastic alteration in the layout of the road approaches to the locality, promising to convert the oldest of local Chinese medical institutions into a modern medical centre where the best and most up-to-date equipment will be made available for a pressing need.

In its broad features the scheme provides for the erection of a main block of six storeys flanked by two smaller structures rising to the same height and separated from the main portion by gardens.

STREET WIDENING.

At the same time Po Yan Street, on which this new building fronts, will be considerably widened, and on the other side of it, included in the hospital property, another building will be constructed to form with the others a comprehensive hospital area meeting the fullest requirements for many years to come.

The work will be carried out in three stages extending over three years.

The first stage has been put in hand in the construction which is now well under way, of the main hospital block, with its completion at about the period of the Chinese New Year, the work of the hospital now being carried on in the old hospital property will be transferred to it.

SPACIOUS HALL.

The distinctive features of this massive building will then be seen in the spacious hall measuring more than fifty feet square, sufficiently large to serve as an imposing setting for the meetings of the Hospital board, and, at other times, of the "Kai-fong" organisations. This imposing hall occupies almost the entire space of the ground floor with a portico over the main entrance into the building in front and a small garden in the rear.

On the right hand side of the hall are situated the secretaries' room and a strong room, while on the left hand side, the layout provides for a male and female admission ward, a staircase hall and other minor offices. There will also be a mezzanine floor to be used as living quarters for the medical and secretarial staffs.

SURGICAL DEPARTMENT.

The first floor will be entirely given over to the general accommodation of patients. On the second floor will be located a surgical department with a large operating theatre in the centre and a smaller one at the right end. Attached to these are sterilizing rooms, an anaesthetic room, an X-ray room, which are all for surgical purposes; and also the superintendent's office, lecture rooms for nursing staff, waiting rooms for visitors and an office for lady doctors.

The third floor will be given over to the use of Chinese female patients with a large number of wards, each containing 25 beds.

The fourth floor, like the first, will contain wards for male patients, while the top floor will be reserved for private patients.

Later on, when funds permit, a sun roof will be set out for the use of patients, whose treatment calls for plenty of air and sunlight.

EXTENSION BLOCKS.

The next two years will see the erection of the two extension wings which are also to be six storeys in height. While containing special rooms for maternity cases and dispensing requirements the general accommodation in these two wings is somewhat on the same lines as the main buildings, with the addition that a portion will be set aside for children's cases.

Included in the work to be carried out next year will be the demolition of that section of the Tung Wah hospital on the south-west side of the Po Yan Street.

The new hospital will be equipped with flush installation and other

HURRICANE TOLL

25 LIVES LOST WHEN SHIP SINKS

Twenty-five lives are believed to have been lost in the sinking on Saturday of the Grecian steamer Annoula in a hurricane off the North Carolina coast. It was stated by five survivors who have arrived in Philadelphia on the steamer Montello, which picked them up in a lifeboat on Sunday night.

The Annoula was a freighter of 3,127 net tons, built in 1908, and her home port was Argostoli.

modern conveniences, and served by an adequate number of lifts.

HAPPY COMPROMISE.

It has been remarked that a better site could have been found elsewhere for the new Chinese health centre than in such a congested area as that in which the present reconstruction scheme is now being carried out, but against this it is claimed for the new building that being much higher than the surrounding structures and provided with gardens as "lung" spaces, it will present the best compromise in necessitous circumstances. In this connexion it is also to be noted that the scheme calls for a decided widening of Po Yan Street which runs through the property, thus helping to relieve the congested appearance of this old native quarter.

STONE-LAYING CEREMONY.

The buildings have been planned by Mr. H. M. Shu, well known local architect, who is also a member of the Hospital Directorate. His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, has graciously consented to perform the ceremony of laying the foundation stone at 4.30 this afternoon.

disease, medical scientists so far have to confess their complete defeat. The cause, the duration of the infection, and the cure are quite unknown.

The theory most generally favoured is that the malarial virus is caused by a "filter-passing" virus; that is, by an organism so minute as to be invisible beneath the microscope's most powerful lens. The toxin of the virus displays an affinity with the grey matter of the brain, no part of which is immune from its attack.

Sleepy sickness, or encephalitis lethargica, is a comparatively new disease. It was first described in the winter of 1917 by the eminent Austrian physician Von Economo, when an epidemic occurred in Vienna. Very little, if anything, was known about it before then.

A TRAGIC MYSTERY.

In the following year cases were reported in England and France, and subsequently the disease assumed a world-wide distribution. It was christened encephalitis lethargica owing to the prominence of marked drowsiness as a symptom in the acute stages of those cases first recorded. Now lethargy is by no means an invariable symptom. Frequently it is associated with, or replaced by, an intractable insomnia.

The tragedy of the illness lies in its residual effects. Complete recovery occurs only in roughly 25 per cent. of cases. The remainder of its victims are more or less severely disabled and usually precluded from resuming their normal occupations.

Very pressing is the need for organized research into the prevention and cure of this disastrous visitation. Fortunately, the prevailing epidemic shows definite signs of abatement.

There is a persistent tendency in the lay mind to confuse sleepy sickness with sleeping sickness. The latter is a totally different malady, occurring as a fever in tropical Africa caused by a parasite conveyed by the tsetse fly. Sleepy sickness remains a tragic mystery for the human race.

Are You Sceptical?

It is a peculiar trait in the human character that we regard with suspicion anything that we have not tried ourselves, no matter how highly others may speak of it. It is just this instinctive antagonism towards things new that gave rise to the proverb, "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." In most such cases a personal trial will banish any doubts where long-established and reputable products are concerned.

If you are feeling tired and overworked, have a poor appetite and are generally run down, your scepticism will almost surely vanish when you personally test the unique tonic merits of

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

For over fifty years and in every civilized country on the globe, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been steadily gaining, and retaining, an unequalled reputation for their blood-purifying, blood-enriching and nerve-rebuilding powers. Their formula, the outcome of many years of study and experiment of a British physician—an M.D. of Edinburgh University—goes right to the root of health troubles caused by blood impoverishment, such as anaemia, nervous debility, premature ageing, indigestion and dyspepsia, neuralgia, back pains, palpitation, and the special ailments of women: also of maladies caused by blood impurity such as rheumatism, malaria, and skin eruptions.

Give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills an honest trial. You will not be disappointed. Chemists everywhere sell them.

TRADE RECOVERY

It is only natural that some critics in America should be asking whether Mr. Roosevelt is going too fast; at the same time, critics in England are complaining that the British Government is going too slow. Both countries have been suffering from the fall in commodity prices, the drying up of markets, trade slackness and unemployment. In both, the supreme task of government is to remedy this situation. Yet the methods adopted seem to be utterly different. It is to be concluded that one government is right and the other wrong, or that a method which may be good in one country may be unsuitable in the other? In both cases the Government had to deal with a crisis in which public morale was temporarily shaken. The first step toward recovery under such conditions is to inspire confidence. It made a big difference in methods taken to attain this end that the peak of the crisis was reached in Britain under the conditions of 1931, whereas it was not reached in the United States till early this year. In Britain it occurred at a moment following a long period of government expenditure which—in 1931—had to be denounced as extravagant and reckless. The world-wide alarm which led to a run on the Bank of England and a grave menace to the national credit was attributed to the extravagance of the Labour Government and its unbalanced budget. The problem of restoring confidence in Great Britain took, therefore, a special form. It demanded the balancing of the budget, heavy taxation, the cutting down of public expenditure, the restriction of imports, and a cautious policy of what was called "sound finance." Retrenchment, economy, sacrifice became the watchwords of the day. The measures which, it was felt, were necessarily taken at that time in Britain to restore national credit were in character the exact opposites of those which are now being taken by the United States. But they succeeded in achieving the immediate aim. It does not follow, however, that the plan which was right for England two years ago is right now. The Government, indeed, has been compelled to modify its attitude. It has felt it necessary to remove some of its economy restrictions, and to give more freedom to local authorities to use funds on public work. There is a growing body of opinion which is urging the Government toward a more enterprising policy, asserting that it ought to reverse the procedure of 1931 and take a few leaves out of the book of President Roosevelt. It is true, few British statesmen or economists urge their Government to go all the way with the President. His programme, they feel, would not

NOTES OF THE DAY

ANTIPIRACY MEASURES

Serious piracy in South waters has been dealt a succession of blows in recent months. The season has passed with few incidents and for this happy state of affairs, thanks are entirely due to the co-operation of the Canton Government with the local authorities. At least two planned attempts on ocean-going ships were frustrated by timely warnings from secret service agents while Bias Bay was robbed of the fruits of a third and more successful attempt by military intervention. Now a campaign is in full swing aiming at a thorough clean-up in the Bias Bay area. This is tackling the problem at the roots. If there is no safe landing-place, piracy will soon be brought to an end.

FREEING FROZEN ASSETS

President Roosevelt is spending another thousand million dollars in order to pay the debts of closed banks to their worst hit depositors. In addition, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is to finance the banks themselves up to fifty per cent. of their depositors, involving probably, another thousand millions. If the aim of the Administration is complete control of banking policy, the programme must be well under way. The mystery is where the money is coming from, although the donors who will benefit will not be expected to enquire too closely. Meanwhile, there is much talk of a return to a sound money policy in the United States. It would be rather interesting to know what would be accepted as constituting monetary inflation.

SHIFTING POPULATION

It will be interesting to see whether the end of the depression will bring any change to the striking new shifts in American population growth. Figures compiled by the Scripps Foundation for Population Research show that during 1932 American cities as a whole decreased in population by more than 400,000 persons. Farm population, on the other hand, increased in that year by 1,000,000. A great part of this was undoubtedly due to the depression. The cityward migration of farm youth was checked, and vast numbers who lost city jobs retreated to their parents' farm homes for the duration of hard times. Should prosperity return the old tendency probably will be resumed.

GERMANY AND JAPAN

The flotation of the rumour that Germany consulted Tokyo before withdrawing from the League was, in a world atmosphere of suspicion, almost as certain as it was unlikely. It may seem strange that Japan should feel it necessary to issue a denial of the rumour, but such denial can well be accepted without reservation. There might be some value in the consultation suggested if Japan and Germany were not at opposite ends of the earth. As it is, Japan's support to-day would be totally valueless to Germany. And Germany can be of assistance to Japan only indirectly, by diverting attention from developments in the Far East. This is a thin basis for a dark plot against the rest of the world such as the rumour would obviously imply. Japan and Germany may very well find themselves in sympathy one with the other as comrades in isolation, but the bogey of active cooperation can lightly be dismissed.

be suited to the peculiar needs of England. But they do insistently urge that the time has now come, with credit standing high, to apply with great energy the stimulus of public works financed by public loans. The later stages of a trade depression afford a most favourable moment, it is argued, for stimulating the upward movement by an expansion of appropriate works—by making up arrears, by anticipating future needs, by accelerating works already in progress. Those who take this view are not a few solitary voices crying in the wilderness. The main trend of vocal public opinion in England is in favour of a vigorous forward policy of public expenditure, not on so-called "relief works," but on constructive re-equipment—expenditure which would increase employment, create purchasing power, and permanently enrich the country. British opinion does not ask the British Government to copy Mr. Roosevelt, but it would welcome a policy animated by his boldness, enterprise and optimism.

WIVES WHO DREAD THE WILDERNESS

By RUSHTON HILL,

Formerly A.D.C. to Various Colonial Governors

IS the call of the East losing its charm? This clarion summons from the lands of the deserts and sun, which by tradition holds an irresistible appeal for the men and women of our country, seems to be falling now on less responsive ears.

A girl has in the last few days dealt the tradition another blow by breaking off her engagement to a young man because marriage would mean her having to go to live in a tropical country. She could not face it.

In the course of a not uneventful life I have lived and worked in many Eastern lands. In Egypt, Africa, India, and the Sudan I have served on the staff of various Governors, and have seen at close quarters women who have come from home either newly married or intending to marry when they land.

Many girls who sail from England to marry men out East change their minds a day or two before the ship arrives in port. It is a strange thing this panic.

Wait, though; is it so strange, after all? There is the thrill to the new-comer in the deep blue of the sea; the constant round of gaiety; the hospitality; the soft pad of the native servants whose feet make no noise; the blood-red sunsets that write across the sky in letters of flame. This is the East; fall down, you, and worship.

You are held in delicious bondage—until you scream to be set free.

You realise that there is no more glamour, for example, in the bazaars of an Eastern town than there is in any village street in England.

We are told that those who drink of the waters of the Nile must always return to drink. But, believe me, the waters are not so potent as they may once have been.

Women newly out from home, after the first excitement of an entirely fresh order of living is over, begin to find that the soft-footed native servants can be very obstinate and deceitful. They discover that house-keeping in a language one does not know is an awful nervous strain.

I once saw a girl, the wife of a young district commissioner stationed at the back of the world, rush out into her compound, lift her eyes to the sky, and scream, "Rain, damn you, rain! Oh, this eternal sun!"

Once the East gets you down you stay down. Bots sail home every day from Eastern ports carrying young wives whose affection for the marriage tie has wilted under the strain of living a life for which they were never intended.

The East takes its toll. Heaven knows, of the men. How much more, then, of the women. There is an allure in the principal social centres of far-off countries, say in Bombay in India, Cairo in Egypt, Khartoum in the Sudan, or Entebbe in Uganda; a girl in any of these can have quite a good time.

Yet I know that in these same places, which boast the comforts of civilisation, including tennis and cocktail parties, there hides the most cruel, the most appalling snobishness and social pettiness—I write of what I know.

The wives of the higher officials have little to say that is kindly to or about the wives of the junior officials. Everyone has an order of precedence to stick to. Who bolts a newcomer who oversteps the mark.

Have I painted too grim a picture of the East, the East of the story-books, that glamorous bourn whence no traveller is supposed to wish to return? I wonder.

In spite of it all, I am going to say this to any girl whose fancy lives and works in the far places of the earth. Take the chance. Go out with him; try to stick the life.

After all, your days there will be fuller than any humdrum settling down at home. You will have difficulties to contend with, hateful things to put up with. But marriage can survive all kinds of shoals.

So go, my little friend. Go, and maybe you will find that the waters of the East are quite drinkable after all.

But no one who knows could honestly blame you if your heart begins to fail you as your ship nears those palm-fringed frontiers beyond which life is so mysterious even when it is most boring.

THE NEWEST DISEASE

By a HEALTH SPECIALIST.

THERE American scientists have volunteered, in the cause of research on sleepy sickness, to be bitten by mosquitoes, believed to harbour the causal virus. The experiment is providing widespread interest in medical circles. There was much talk about it in Harley-street.

The heroic nature of the experiment becomes more apparent when it is explained that, should the men concerned become infected, they will not only face the risk of death but, in the event of recovery, are likely to be severely and permanently disabled, mentally and physically.

The research assumes importance for medical men everywhere because at the present time the mode by which the disease is propagated is entirely unknown.

Sleepy sickness is recognized as being contagious, but only feebly so, direct infection from one case to another being a rarity.

Up to now there has been no evidence at all for its transmission by non-human agencies.

SCIENTISTS BAFFLED.

The possibility that the mosquito may play a role as carrier of the disease-virus has no doubt been suggested by the unusual time of year at which the prevailing epidemic has made its appearance. Sleepy sickness is, as a rule, a malady of cold weather and the winter, its incidence being most heavy during the first quarter of the year.

In spite of the tremendous amount of research, both clinical and experimental, that has been carried out in every country to elucidate the nature of this queer (Continued on Page 5.)

The Very Idea!

GIRLS, PRESERVE YOUR FIGURE

By Eddie Kelly, Stylis.

DO you want to preserve your figure? Would you like to get rid of that corporation?

People in all walks of life, and some who find it hard to walk at all, keep pestering us for information on how we preserve our sylph-like figure.

We will explain it here, once and for all. After this, we don't want to be bothered any more on the subject.

With us, we suppose it's a gift. We can reduce our bust measurement by about two inches simply by taking all the things out of our vest pockets. Exercise and diet are the main things.

As regards diet, Marlene Rich-diet recommends steamed raisins soaked overnight in lemon juice. We have not tried this, but we think it should be good. Ladies who are bad shots should get someone else to stone the raisins for them. Moderate sized stones should be used.

Oranges and lemons were used in days gone by by the belles of St. Clement's, who found them very beneficial.

Exercise should be taken in moderation. Here is a good one for reducing the hips: Stand erect with the hands on top of the head, and slowly raise the left leg to the level of the shoulder. Keep it there for five or ten minutes, then gently lower it to the ground. Do this ten times with the left leg and ten times with the right leg. Then do it with both legs at once.

Now for some more dieting. We diet very strenuously ourselves. First our breakfast, then diet; then, followed by a fairly light diet in order to prepare for afternoon tea, which should be followed by a fair amount of dieting until dinner time. If the system can stand it, one should fast from then until supper.

After supper to bed. A little exercise may be had by getting up a couple of hours after retiring and wandering around the house wondering if there was any of the rice pudding left over.

Don't be misled by weighing machines. Weighing machines are the most lying things on earth, and should be treated accordingly. When you see "230 lbs." on the dial, think of the number you first thought of and stick to it.

And don't be disheartened if results do not come immediately.

Slim women may look sleek, but a fat woman stays. Ask any corset dealer.

"S.S. CRICKET"

We notice in a Router cable that the Australian cricketers have booked their passages for the 1934 tour to England.

Presumably they are travelling by one of the widely-publicised vessels of the Body Line.

SCOTS JOKE NO. 57,931

And, of course, you've heard of the Scotman who saved all his toys so that he'd have them to play with in his second childhood?

MUSSED

They met upon the stair;
She reached his shoulder, just.
The light-switch happened where
His ready hand was thrust.
"Please don't," she cried, "my hair..."
"You'll muss it," she was fussed.
He went on kissing her;
For if he mussed he must.

HANDICAPPED

Poor Gertie! We received the following letter from her yesterday, but, unfortunately, she omitted her address:

Dear Eddie.—What shall I do? I have the most innocent-looking eyes.

Men get to within an inch of my lips, and then draw back, saying, "You look so innocent!"

Dash my eyes! I want to live!

"I wish you would stop referring to me as the little woman."

"JAPANESE AS ROMANS OF FAR EAST"

AMERICAN LOOKS AT MANCHURIA

IMPROVEMENT UNDER JAPANESE ADMINISTRATION

NEW ROADS & RAILWAYS

A vision of a new Manchuria, as a modern Rome under the control of the Japanese, formed the gist of an interview granted to the Telegraph to-day by Mr. George Holden Tinkham, Republican Congressman in the U.S.A. for 18 years, and a member of the Foreign Relations Committee of the House of Representatives.

Mr. Tinkham, during a tour of Manchuria, penetrated as far as Peking, witnessed the fighting in Jehol and spent weeks studying the economic and general life of the people before coming to his conclusions.

"American policy in the Far East," he said, "should be, as it always has been, one of strict neutrality and this neutrality should extend to all foreign questions."

MANCHURIA TO-DAY.

"I was much impressed by economic and industrial conditions in Manchuria. Railroads were being built, roads were being improved, and there was much building activity both private and public. The country impressed me as one which was advancing under orderly government."

There is, however, away from the centres of population, much disturbing banditry, but not different from that which I understand, exists in China proper.

"In my opinion the Japanese are the Romans of the East. They are not so much originators as absorbers of the technique and culture of other countries, but that was true of the Romans. The Romans were a military race, excellent organisers and this seems to be true of the Japanese."

ACCEPTING RULE.

"I think at the moment that the Chinese in Manchuria have a stability under Japanese control that they did not seem to have before and that they are agreeing to Japanese rule."

In reply to a question, Mr. Tinkham said he had travelled on the C.E.R. and the organisation was of the same excellence as in the States.

Touching on affairs in his own country, he said there was widespread poverty. "I do not think the National Industrial Recovery Administration will succeed," he added. "The fundamental philosophy of it is unsound and it will ultimately be a failure."

BIG GAME HUNTING.

Mr. Tinkham, although 63 years of age, was enthusiastic about the 30,000 miles private tour of the world which he commenced when he left his native town of Boston in August. A third of the trip will be covered in the air and the terrestrial portion will include big game hunting in Salgon and Madras.

En route to this Colony, Mr. Tinkham visited Yokohama, from which he planned to fly via Harbin, Korea and Jehol to Peking. A typhoon nearly caused a premature conclusion of the trip while only half-way to Osaka but after considerable difficulty Mr. Tinkham reached his first stopping place, from which he had to entrain to Mukden.

An aeroplane flight to Harbin took him there on the day of the expiration of the Japanese ultimatum to Chinese irregulars between Peking and the Wall that they must evacuate or be forced out so to avoid confusing his schedule, Mr. Tinkham went

JEHOL FIGHTING.

At Jehol he witnessed fighting here for a week before he continued on to Shanghai and Hankow. He had intended to fly from the first named to Hongkong by way of Canton but was unable to arrange the air journey to Hongkong. After a flight to Manila and Baguio, Mr. Tinkham boarded the "Empress of Asia" which brought him yesterday to the Colony where he is staying at the guest of Mr. Douglas Jenkins, U.S. Consul General.

On October 24, Mr. Tinkham leaves for Salgon and the round tour, which he hopes to conclude in time for the re-opening of Congress early in January.

WAR RECORD.

Since 1893 he has travelled extensively, once previously round the world and 46 times to Europe. In Who's Who, he is credited with being the first American to fire against the Austrians after the declaration of war, at Capo d'Argine, on Piave River, on December 11, 1917. He was offered the Chevalier della Corona d'Italia but a constitutional provision compelled him to refuse the decoration.

ALLEGED SCISSORS ASSAULT.

MEN BOUND OVER TO KEEP THE PEACE

Cheung Wai, a barber, charged before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, with assaulting Ng Pui with a pair of scissors at No. 28, Johnstone Road, ground floor, pleaded that it was an accident.

The complainant, he said, was employed in the shop. He gave him instructions, which he refused to carry out. He was sharpening a pair of scissors at the time and accidentally struck the complainant with it.

Mr. Schofield bound over both men in $75 each to keep the peace for six months, remarking that the complainant seemed to be of a very quarrelsome nature.

DR. DOLLFUSS ACTS

INAUGURATES OWN FASCIST FORCE

Vienna, Oct. 13. Inaugurating his own brand of Fascism, the Austrian Chancellor, Dr. Engelbert Dollfuss has incorporated the Heimwehr militia into an organisation entitled the National Front, under the command of Prince von Starhemberg.

The move strengthened the government's armed support. It was another step in Dollfuss' programme of setting up defences against German Nazi influence in Austria.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

EXCESS OF GRIEF FOR THE DECEASED IS MADNESS; FOR IT IS AN INJURY TO THE LIVING, AND THE DEAD KNOW IT NOT.—Xenophon.

The Royal Engineers Warrant Officers and Sergeants' Mess are holding a Dance in the Garrison Lecture Hall on Friday 20th October, 1933, commencing at 8.30 p.m.

The wedding is announced to take place shortly of Mr. William O'Neill, Agent of 3, Humphrey's Building, Kowloon, and Miss Margaret Kirkbride, of 205, West End Gardens, Shanghai.

Notice has been given of the forthcoming marriage of Mr. Frank Andrew Cleasby Taylor, ship's officer, of the China Navigation Co., Shanghai, and Miss Marie Christina Martin, of Richmond, Surrey, England.

Two cases of typhoid and one case of paratyphoid were reported to the local health authorities during the week-end.

A naval carnival dance is being held on board H.M.S. "Tamar" on Saturday from 9.00 p.m. to 1.00 a.m. Tickets at $1.50 each can be obtained from the Dance Secretary, H.M.S. "Tamar." Ladies should apply for courtesy tickets to the dance secretary.

Last Saturday the Rose Room of the Peninsula Hotel was crowded with people who appreciated the performances of Don and Sally and the Worth Sisters, who appeared in an entirely new programme. Don and Sally are again extremely popular in Hongkong and their polished presentations are always sure of a welcome. The Worth Sisters, sparkling with pep, have won the decided approval of the Colony, and it is regrettable that a previous engagement compels them to leave Hongkong in a week's time.

NAVY BALL

TRAFALGAR DAY PLANS

The arrangements for the Navy Ball to be held at the Peninsula Hotel on Saturday will be similar to those of the St. George, St. Andrew & St. Patrick's Society Balls.

His Excellency the Governor & Lady Peel have kindly consented to attend.

Dancing will commence at 9.30 p.m., and, in addition to the programme, Benmen Boys from H.M.S. "Suffolk" will give a display of the Sailors Hornpipe. The popular and talented artists, Don and Sally, and the Worth Sisters will also entertain, together, during the evening.

The management of the hotel have co-operated with enthusiasm in the Trafalgar Day movement, and have erected a replica of Nelson's Monument outside the Peninsula Hotel.

Tickets are obtainable from the Secretary, Navy Ball, H.M.S. "Tamar" and the Peninsula, Hongkong & Repulse Bay Hotels, at $10 each, including Buffet Supper and Refreshments. Ten per cent of the tickets sold will be allocated to the Trafalgar Day Fund.

A buffet supper with set tables will be served, which will be opened at 11.45 p.m.

For the convenience of those attending the Ball a special dinner will be provided at moderate cost at the Peninsula Hotel.

The Star Ferry Company will run late ferries at every half hour from 1.00 a.m. till 3.30 a.m. and Peak Trams will be available at frequent intervals.

ELECTRIC EYE

NEW DEVICE TO AVOID SMASHES

An electric "eye" which can be employed to prevent level crossing accidents on railways, has been developed by a Sydney engineer, Mr. R. Mitchell Hill.

The device is particularly effective at level-crossings which are not protected by gates or which are partly protected by gates opened and closed by vehicle drivers.

The essential part of the protective equipment is an electric eye, which, when a road vehicle comes within its focus, operates a special warning signal on the railway track within braking distance of the crossing, says Austral News.

Electric eyes installed on the line about a quarter of a mile either side of the crossing register a "loud siren" continuously at the crossing as well as lighting a red-lettered warning notice.

WORKMAN STEALS CABLE

FROM THE HONGKONG BANK SITE

Employed by Messrs. Logan and Amps in connection with the demolition of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank building, Sing See, a Shanghai man, appeared before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning, charged with the theft of a piece of lead covered cable the property of the Bank. The defendant was arrested in Queen's Road, Central near Cochrane Street.

Mr. C. L. Rocha, of the complainant firm, intimated they wished to have him punished as an example to the other workmen on the site. The defendant was bound over.

WANG CHING-WEI BACK AGAIN

BRIEF INTERVIEW IN NANKING

Nanking, Oct. 16. Mr. Wang Ching-wei, President of the Executive Yuan, returned to the capital yesterday from Kukiang after a conference with Marshal Chiang Kai-shek. Shortly after his return, Mr. Wang granted an interview to journalists and said that his discussion with Marshal Chiang covered political, military, financial and diplomatic problems during the period when the anti-Red campaign is in full swing.

Marshal Chiang has returned to Nanchang to direct the anti-Red operations in East Kiangsi.—Central News Agency.

The 8th Destroyer Flotilla left shortly after noon to-day for exercises, and will return on Friday.

Representatives of Hungary, Soviet Russia, Poland and Turkey were only the delegates who refrained from voting their approval of this text, the Hungarian representative because he said his country according to the Treaty was in a special position and had to consider the disarmament problem from a different angle to other countries, and the Russian, Polish and Turkish representatives because they had not participated in the negotiations referred to in the reply.

SIR JOHN SIMON LEAVES.

Sir John Simon is leaving Geneva for London to-night. He will attend the usual Wednesday meeting of the Cabinet when the Disarmament situation will be examined in the light of recent developments. He will see the Prime Minister immediately on his return.—British Wireless.

LEADERS LEAVING.

Geneva, Oct. 16. The heads of most of the principal delegations to the disarmament Conference, including Sir John Simon and M. Paul Boncour, are leaving immediately to consult with their Governments during the adjournment of the Conference.—Routier.

STOCK MARKET REACTIONS

CITY CALM IN SPITE OF SITUATION

London, Oct. 16. In view of the uncertainties of the international situation, dealers on Stock Exchange at the opening of the market, took usual precautionary measure of lowering the quotations.

There was, however, no suggestion of panic selling, and the city took the situation calmly.

Although little business passed prices were recovering steadily throughout the day and generally above the worst.

German bonds of 5½ per cent. were at 46½ and 7 per cent. at 73½. The British 3½ per cent. War Loan finished at 101 3/16. Home rails and industrials, and Affairs showed some recovery.—British Wireless.

U.S. STOCK MARKET

Marked Weakness on News From Europe

New York, Oct. 16. The news that a special unit had been created within the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which will advance $1,000,000,000 to the depositors of closed banks and thus have the effect of releasing this amount of new purchasing power, was not considered hopeful enough to prevent another severe decline in both the stock and commodity markets.

Unfavourable news from Europe and the impending conversion of a large portion of the Fourth Liberty Loan 4½% bonds, the latter of which seemed to preclude any immediate open currency inflationary measures, contributed largely to the weakness which was and is apparent in all markets.

In the face of all this, business news is decidedly better and the basis of the markets is considered firm. Fears are felt regarding the position of the Daladier government in France. It has been unstable at its best during the past few months and budgetary crisis which will occur in November has been promising to seriously test its strength. Germany's recent international utterances have made its position even more insecure and uneasiness over the European situation contributed in no small measure to the general liquidation which took place to-day in New York. Per Swen, Culbertson & Fritz.

ARMED ROBBERY ON LAMMA

GROCER STABBED IN RESISTING

The little village of Wan Cheung, near Tai-O, on Lamma Island, was the scene of an armed robbery attended by the wounding of an inhabitant, late last night.

Four men, armed with revolvers and knives, forced their way into the home of Cheng Shu, a grocer, and when he resisted, they stabbed him in the body. After making a thorough search of the interior, they escaped with $170 and a small quantity of jewellery.

The condition of the injured man is not known.

CORRESPONDENCE

The "Cheero".

(To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.)

Sir,—Mr. F. G. Sale called on me recently and generously promised to make the following gifts to the new "Cheero," upon his departure for England early next year, namely:—

1. A Victrola, Model 8-30. (Electric); Mahogany.

2. A 10-Valve short-wave wireless set, Model 480, Atwater Kent. (Teak Cabinet).

Mr. Sale also kindly promised to pay for the storage of the above until the new "Cheero" building was ready to receive them.

Whilst taking this opportunity of thanking Mr. Sale for this welcome help, may I venture to express the hope that in answer to Lady Peel's appeal, contributions to the building of the new "Cheero" will continue to flow in, in generous measure.

The Directors of the Y.M.C.A., of which I am President, will be holding a Meeting on the 26th of this month, with the view of considering the taking over of the management of the new "Cheero," but, at present, unfortunately only about $15,000 has been subscribed out of a desired total of $35,000.

Yours faithfully, H. E. POLLOCK.

S. CHINA "DEATH SENTENCE"

REVOKED

FOOTBALL APPEAL ALLOWED

FIXTURES TO BE RE-ARRANGED

DECISION MADE LAST NIGHT

APPLIES ONLY TO SENIORS

(By "Veritas").

The "death sentence" passed on South China for being unable to fulfil some of their fixtures in the first division of the Hongkong Football League has been revoked.

An appeal lodged by the Club through the medium of Mr. J. D. Bush last night was heard by the committee who agreed, that in view of the peculiar circumstances, to permit the South China seniors to re-arrange these fixtures when they return from the National sports meeting in Nanking.

In regard to the second eleven, however, it was decided that it was impossible to extend the same privilege, and the team will have to fulfil its fixtures on the dates appointed in the official handbook.

THREE GAMES AFFECTED.

The South China team now in Nanking are due back after October 21, so that only three matches are affected.

These are:
v Lincoln
v R. Artillery
v Recreo

The club's second string has already defaulted to the Royal Artillery. They also did not play last Saturday, but this was due to the fact that the arranged fixture was with the East Lanes, who have not yet arrived from Shanghai.

HAPPY ENDING.

It is a matter for congratulation that the Committee have adopted the wise course of allowing the South China appeal.

The position called for a benevolent, rather than an aggressively authoritative attitude by the Football Association. In fact, persistence in the original decision of the Council might have done irreparable damage.

South China did not succeed in the whole of their appeal. The Association has stood firm in regard to the second division team and next Saturday the club will have to turn out an eleven against the Navy unless they choose to forfeit the points.

In qualifying their amended verdict in this manner the Committee have not acted too harshly. South China certainly are in the position to field a second and third team even with so many of their players in Nanking. The League have every right to look for co-operation from South China.

TSUI WAI PUI THROWS GAME AWAY

AFTER TOYING WITH SHANGHAI PLAYER AT NANKING

Tsui Wai-pui, the clever young Hongkong tennis player, defeated himself when he met Wang Wen-cheng of Shanghai in the National Sports Meeting at Nanking.

Tsui, who beat John Wade the Shanghai captain in the 1932 Interport, had the match in hand in the fourth set when he established a lead of 5-3.

Then he went to pieces and offered no further resistance.

Lai Kwong-teun, who beat Ng Sze-kwong in straight sets in the Hongkong Championship this year, scored a clever victory for Canton, beating Billy Yui, this year's conqueror in Guy Cheng.

Nanking, Oct. 16.
Shanghai has eliminated the Canton tennis team in the national sports meeting here, by two matches to one. Canton's only victory was scored by Lai Kwong-teun against Billy Yui, the games going 4-6, 1-6, 10-8, 6-4, 6-3.

After a thrilling match, Wang Wen-cheng of Shanghai beat Tsui Wai-pui of Canton. The scores were 6-2, 6-7, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1. The southern player won the match in his hands in the fourth set, when he led 5-3. But he failed at the crucial moment and collapsed in the last set.

Peking, the favourites in the basketball, unexpectedly lost to Canton, 41-31. In girls' volleyball, Canton beat Hopei, 2-1.

In a baseball fixture, Canton beat Peking by 5-2 entering the final.

A NASTY INCIDENT

Soldiers Fire on Crowd

Nanking, Oct. 16.
A nasty incident marked the success of the National Sports meeting yesterday. Early yesterday morning, when the sixth day of the meeting, when the basketball match between the Shanghai and the Fukien ladies was in progress, a body of armed soldiers, numbering over a hundred, unceremoniously arrived and on being refused admittance, some of them opened fire, wounding a boy scout and a student, and causing a general panic among the spectators.

The Cantonese residents in Nanking are preparing a dinner, to give the Kwangtung competitors a hearty send-off.

NATIONAL RECORDS BROKEN.

The ten track and field events have now come to a close. Chang Ling-chieh of Peking is first, leading Chen Ling of Shanghai. Both of them broke the national record in their aggregate points.

The Shanghai ladies defeated the Fukien ladies in perhaps the most thrilling basketball match of the meeting. The result of the match remained in doubt till the final whistle sounded, the score at the half-time interval being 11-11. Eventually Shanghai won 23-25.

Miss Sun Kwai-yun of Peking shone in the basketball match against the Hupeh ladies, when she scored 33 points for the home team.

Results are appended:
400 Metres Relay. Final.—1. Kwangtung; 2. Shanghai; 3. Nanking; 4. Peking. Time 44.2 seconds.
(Record.)
Volley-ball Section.—(Men) Kwangtung beat Kiangsu 3-0; and Chekiang beat Nanking 3-1. (Women) Hongkong beat Hunan 3-1, and Peking beat Kiangsu 3-0.
Basket-ball Section.—(Men) Hupeh beat Fukien 47-29 and Nanking beat the Philippines 42-20. (Women) Shanghai beat Fukien 25-25, Hopei beat Harbin 63-10, Kwangtung beat Hunan 46-24, and Peking beat Hupeh 60-11.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

SIX SHANGHAI "CERTS"

FOR CRICKET INTERPORT

WORD RECEIVED IN COLONY

DONALD LEACH CAPTAIN

Mr. Harry Owen-Hughes has received notification of the names of six players who are certain to appear in the Shanghai Interport cricket team in Hongkong next month.

They are:

D. W. Leach (Capt.)
T. W. R. Wilson
P. Madar
R. Booth
J. C. Jenkins
J. F. N. Mayhew

The rest of the team will very probably be composed of the following:

L. Stokes
O. G. Simpson

P. V. Simpson
A. J. Barson
S. R. Kernani
C. G. W. Robson, with
H. T. Smith, as manager

NINE OLD INTERPORTERS.

Of these eleven players, nine are old Interporters, and have all been seen in action before in Hongkong. It looks as though Donald Leach is to be happily placed and should be in the position to lead a strong team.

Jenkins, a sound bowler, and Mayhew, a fine wicket-keeper, make their debut in Interport cricket, and judging from Shanghai reports are players of high calibre.

THE TENNIS LEAGUE

C DIV. MATCHES COMPLETED

SEASON CLOSES FRIDAY

The Hongkong Tennis league season for 1933 officially closes on Friday of this week, and already the "C" Division programme has been completed, leaving four matches outstanding in the "A" and two in the "B".

Yesterday the Army Tennis Club and the Kowloon Dock Recreation Club played off their final tie, whilst the K.C.C., given a walk over by the Radio Sports Club and Civil Service, visited Craigengower for their last match.

Unfortunately a late start was made and the game could not be completed. It was decided, however, that it should be regarded as a draw.

As a result the K.C.C. finish the season runners-up to the Chinese Recreation Club, having lost 4½ points out of a possible 28.

The Army defeated Kowloon Dock by 5½ sets to 3½.

The final leading positions are occupied by:

	P.	W.	D.	L.	F.	A.	Pts.
C. R. C.	14	0	0	11	1	18½	28
K. C. C.	14	1	1	3	7½	40½	23
C. de R.	14	1	0	3	8½	40½	22

CRAZE FOR PING-PONG

AUSTRALIA FORMS "BOARD OF CONTROL"

Australia is the latest country to revive the old game of ping-pong.
Sydney is experiencing a veritable craze for it, says Austral News, although nobody dare call it ping-pong. It is given the much more dignified name, table tennis.

Such is the enthusiasm that an "Australian Board of Control" has been formed in Melbourne and inter-state tournaments have been arranged between Victoria, South Australia, New South Wales and Queensland. In the winter competitions which have just been played, New South Wales alone had 40 teams comprising 250 players. This State expects to have 100 teams in the "field" next month.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

I don't believe that you can count up that number of high card tricks in one hand, add it to the number in partner's hand and in that manner determine whether or not you can make a game or slam. I have seen too many hands held by six or seven tricks, between them have difficulty in even game, while many hands that had only two to four tricks between them made a game and even a slam.

However, aces do play an important part in slam bidding, and when your partner starts making aggressive bids and slam invitations and you hold two aces and a solid suit, don't be afraid to bet into seven. Several players missed a grand slam on the following hand because they were afraid of their doubleton diamond.

The Bidding.
South bids one heart and West who is vulnerable, should not over call with two diamonds. North bids one spade—this is a one over one force.

If South held a doubleton diamond, I believe his next bid should be two clubs. However, he is void of diamonds, and has the jack and one of his partner's suit, therefore I believe that he should make a slam try bid of three clubs. This is a forcing bid, assuring game, but at the same time it is a mild slam try.

North should bid four clubs to show the fit in clubs. South's next bid should be five hearts. While North holds only a doubleton heart, South's bid has clearly indicated to him that the heart suit is practically solid.

South is not afraid of making five hearts, even though North holds a singleton, so that the ten and x constitute good support. It is true that North has a doubleton diamond, but he has two aces and South is inviting a slam, so the correct response by North is seven hearts—not six.

West should not make the mistake of doubling simply because he holds the ace of diamonds. If he can rest assured that he will have a very good score on the board, while if his ace of diamonds is trumped, as the bidding has indicated it will be, he is sure to receive a poor score on the board.

HIT CONDUCTOR IN THE EYE

CANTON STUDENT'S RESENTMENT

Requested by a conductor to move up from the entrance as the tram was crowded, Pang Kul-shun, a young student from Canton, resented it and punched him in the eye.

He was brought before Mr.
Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning and bound over on a charge of assault and ordered to pay $5 amends to the conductor, Cheng Sun, whose right eye was blackened.

Inspector Brennan said that incident occurred in Des Voeux
Road Central near the Pedder Street terminus shortly after seven o'clock this morning.

Mr. A. Gillard, Traffic Superintendent of the Hongkong Tramways, remarked that the conductor would not be able to work for four or five days.

AFRICA'S FLORA & FAUNA

CONFERENCE SEEKS TO PROTECT

SANCTUARIES TO BE ESTABLISHED

London, Oct. 16.

The protection of African flora and fauna by means of a revised International Convention will be the chief purpose of a Conference which will meet in London on October 31, and at which the Governments of Great Britain, Abyssinia, Belgium, Egypt, France, Italy,
Portugal, Spain and Anglo-Egyptian Sudan will be represented.

The Governments of India,
United States and Netherlands have nominated observers.

The Chief British delegate Lord Onslow will preside. Other British delegates will be Sir William Gowers, Senior Crown Agent for Colonies, Sir Arnold Hodson,
Governor of Sierra Leone, and Mr.
A. B. Acheson, Colonial Office.

A draft convention for the use as a basis of discussion has been circulated to other Governments by the United Kingdom Government. It contains suggestions for an agreed declaration of principle on the establishment of National sanctuaries, in which wild animals and plants may be preserved with due regard to the interests of native inhabitants of the various territories concerned, and also proposes measures to restrict killing of some of the rarer species of African animals.

It also deals with the various objectionable methods of hunting and other practices which have destructive effects upon wild life,

PARKING CASE FAILS

NAVAL COMMANDER DISMISSED

Remarking that there was a certain vagueness as to the time of the arrival of the car, Mr.
Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, discharged Commander W. G. Cowland, of the Royal Naval Yard, who was summoned for having, on October 1, parked his car in the lane adjoining Queen's Theatre, which is not an authorised parking place.

Sergeant Wagland said that he saw the car being driven into the lane at 9.10 p.m., and about quarter of an hour later saw it parked there. It was there again when he visited the place at 10 p.m. and 11 p.m. No one was in charge of it.
About 11.15 p.m. he saw four or five people get into it, and defendant was in the driving seat.
Defendant admitted he was the driver. Witness pointed out the "No Parking" sign to the defendant, and said he would be summoned.
Defendant replied he had parked his car there on several previous occasions, and had never been interfered with by the police.

In reply to defendant, witness said that the illuminated parking sign was about half way down the street, and on the side opposite to which the car was parked.

Defendant, in the witness box, admitted that all the facts as stated by the police officer were correct, except that he (witness) had arrived at the Theatre at 9.25 p.m.

and is designed to secure cooperation between the various administration.—British Wireless.
